Reds Throw Back Nazis In Sectors

Situation Is More Critical in Caucasus Region Where Nazis Push Ahead

Tank Attack Meets Trouble in Area Near Stalingrad

Rallying Soviet armies, fighting under the slogan "Die, but don't retreat," threw back the Germans in some sectors of the Don river bend 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad today, but in the Caucasus the situation grew ever more critical.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters declared that German, Rumanian and Slovak troops driving toward the Caucasus oil fields had already thrust spearheads 112 miles below the Don, and the Russians acknowledged German advances in this theatre.

The Nazi command said that fighting was in progress for the town of Salsk, a junction on the last major rail line from the Caucasus to Stalingrad 100 miles southeast of Rostov, and that Axis troops had swept across the Don on a 150-mile front.

German speed troops and advanced infantry divisions were pictured by the Nazi command as closely pursuing the Russians and preventing further retreat at several points by outstripping the "disorganized fugitives."

Strong Soviet attacks were acknowledged in the north, around Rzhhev, 130 miles northwest of Moscow, on the Volkhov front and outside Leningrad.

In the battle of the Don river bend above Stalingrad, the Red armies reported they had turned a novel "flying wedge" attack of massed German infantry, walled by tanks, into a death trap for the Nazis.

Battalions Wiped Out

Dispatches to Red Star said Russian troops also wiped out three battalions of German infantry disguised in Soviet army uniforms. Red Star said the deception was quickly frustrated when it was discovered that white tabs, not worn by the Russians, had been placed on the collars.

"Southwest of Kletskaya, our troops repelled enemy attacks and in some sectors pressed the enemy back," a bulletin from Red Army headquarters said.

Kletskaya, 80 miles above Stalingrad, has been the scene of a giant sea-saw battle for the past eight days.

While the situation along the Don river bend visibly improved, the Soviet command acknowledged that Marshal Fedor Von Bock's armies had scored new gains in the critical struggle in the northern Caucasus.

"South and southeast of Bataisk (15 miles below Rostov), bloody fighting is in progress against attacking mechanized units," a Red Army communique said.

In spite of the fact that the resistance of our troops has increased, the Germans have advanced in some sectors."

German field headquarters asserted that Nazi troops had crossed the lower Don on a 150-mile front, and German military dispatches reported that Nazi columns lunging into the Caucasus had captured the important rail junction of Kuschchevka, 45 miles south of Rostov.

Nazi military quarters said German vanguards were making quick headway in two big columns south of Rostov and beyond Proletarskaya, and declared that according to information reaching Berlin the Soviet retreat at several points became a disorderly flight.

The Germans conceded, however, that the Russians continued to offer "tenacious resistance" in the hilly regions around Kalach, in the Don river bend, 50 miles west of Stalingrad.

"Die, but don't retreat!" was the slogan voiced by Red Star, official Red Army newspaper.

Confirmation still was lacking for a Vichy (French) radio broadcast report yesterday that German troops from the Crimea had crossed the narrow Kerch Strait to the Caucasus mainland and were impelling the Russians below Bataisk.

Cater Is Arraigned In County Court, Pleads Innocent

Ex-Public Service Head in Welfare Department; 3 Other Indictments Are Returned

Barent W. Cater, 46, of 46 Maiden Lane, who recently resigned his position as director of public service in the city's welfare department, was arraigned in County Court this morning before Judge J. Edward Conway, under an indictment handed up by the grand jury and pleaded not guilty to a charge of grand larceny, first degree.

The indictment, which was presented by the grand jury, alleges the act on June 15, 1942. Cater was arrested on July 8 on a warrant sworn out by Captain James V. Simpson of the Kingston police department and at that time was given a hearing before City Judge Matthew V. Cahill on a charge of appropriating $750 from the welfare funds during a period extending from January 1, 1941 to June 15, 1942.

At that time it was stated that the funds which Cater was charged with appropriating were funds deposited with the welfare board for support of members of families who were being aided by the city's welfare department. Cater waived examination at that time and was held in jail for action of the grand jury which was then in session.

In court today he was represented by Louis G. Bruhn and after entering a plea of not guilty was remanded to the custody of the sheriff. Mr. Bruhn reserved the right to make further application to the court in the matter.

There were three other open indictments handed up by the grand jury. One sealed bill was found and a bench warrant issued for the arrest of that defendant. This was the second report made by (Continued on Page Nine)

Potential Soldiers, Sailors, Marines Will Be Given Tough Water Course

Albany, N. Y., July 31 (AP)—New York's war council set out today to train potential soldiers, sailors and marine in the tough tricks of water fighting, and to harden civilians through a state-wide swimming program.

One phase of the plans announced today is a grueling "water commando" course.

Designed to meet aquatic training demands of armed forces in the Far East and on convoy service, and to provide protective training for civilians, the program includes these tests:

"The mosquito boat" test—speed in swimming short distances, 50, 100, 150, 220 yards, in a required time.

Russia Asks U. S. Pact Be Extended

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Soviet Ambassador Maxim Litvinoff called on Secretary of State Hull today to exchange notes extending for another year the Soviet-American commercial agreement of 1937.

The identical notes provide that the agreement, which would have expired August 2, shall remain in force until August 6, 1943, and thereafter, unless superseded by a more comprehensive commercial agreement.

State Department officials noted that while the character and amount of United States trade with the Soviet Union during the coming year would be governed largely by military requirements rather than commercial considerations, the exchange of notes assures continued recognition of the principles involved in the 1937 act.

Bronx Residents Victims of Auto Which Runs From Highway

Morris Kaplan, 64, and Samuel Wallach, 66, both of The Bronx, summer guests at the Rose Glow Hotel in Monticello, were killed, one of them instantly, when they were struck by an automobile about 12:30 Thursday afternoon, while they were walking along the road.

Harry Witaler, 69, of Brooklyn, driver of the car which struck the two men, told Chief of Police Jack Sharoff of Monticello that he lost control of his car as he was driving toward Monticello when he was forced off the road by another car.

Balance of Power In Russia Soon Will Be Apparent

Timoshenko's Defense Is Either Red Strength or Nazi Weakness as Time Will Prove

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

Red Marshal Timoshenko, while continuing to give ground south of Rostov on the lower Don, has tightened his defenses considerably along the great crescent-shaped battle front during the past two days, but whether this represents Russian strength or a weakening of the Nazi drive isn't yet clear.

We ought to know soon, however, where the balance of power lies in the bloody clash of giants. Long before Hitler began the offensive upon which his fortune depends, this column pointed out that there was no way of judging the comparative strengths of the opposing forces short of seeing them in action in the big showdown.

During the first year's fighting both sides suffered tremendous losses in men and materiel, and in addition the Bolsheviks gave up vast industrial and agricultural resources. Still, it was impossible to estimate the potential of recovery for either side with any degree of certainty. We had to wait to see what the Nazi blitz produced in the way of his "spring" offensive.

Even now, despite the fierceness of the fighting, we haven't got the answer to our question. The Red retirement has given us a gauge, because that was anticipated and it has been carried out in an orderly manner. The conflict now has reached a stage, however, when marked weakness on either side will begin to show up.

Using Last Resources

The Communist Party newspaper Pravda of Moscow asserts that Germany is throwing its last resources into the offensive, and adds that "the enemy is not so strong as he appears to some panic-mongers." Pravda's information has been pretty accurate in the past, and if its present estimate is correct, then the Reds certainly need not despair of holding the invaders.

We get another interesting view from Russian Major General Zhuravlev, a keen military commentator for the Moscow News. He declares "the day is approaching when the Red army will deliver a counter-blow" and adds that while the German army is still capable of scoring short-lived successes in separating sections of the front, it "will inevitably be smashed."

Now that is bold language, but we can't dismiss it lightly, for we know that there may be sufficient Russian strength, or sufficient German weakness, to bring about exactly the result the general predicts. We mustn't overlook that Hitler's resources are on the wane, which is precisely the reason he is seeking to break into the Caucasus now.

Jap Drive for Siberia Will Come In Next Two Months, British Say

College President Heads Feminine Branch in Navy

Mildred H. McAfee, 42, of Wellesley Will Be Chief of 'WAVES' in Sea Corps

Washington, July 31 (AP)—It's U. S. N. R., if you please.

Within the next few days Secretary of the Navy Knox is going to let out the secret that he, the admirals and Commander-in-Chief Roosevelt have agreed on Miss McAfee, Wellesley College's 42-year-old president, as head of Uncle Sam's sailorettes.

President Roosevelt yesterday signed into law a bill creating a feminine naval reserve, designated as women appointed for volunteer emergency service—and promptly dubbed the "WAVES"—to release men for active sea duty.

So now Miss McAfee's military-minded nieces have a chance of volunteering to be a "WAVE" or a "WAAC," the feminine equivalent in the army.

The new naval service will include 1,000 commissioned officers and about 10,000 enlisted members. The corps will be shore-bound sailors and the law prohibits their being sent outside the country.

Reports from Wellesley grads are that potential "WAVES" have drawn, in "Miss Mac," a shipshape choice as director.

For one thing, Miss Mac, in addition to being scholarly, witty and human, is very good-looking. Of medium height, she wears her crisp dark hair clipped in loose curls about her head. There's directness in her eyes.

To Shorts from Bloomers

She was 36 when she became president of Wellesley. For the first three years, she was quite conservative. The one day she sanctioned shorts instead of bloomers for gym.

She went about the campus hatless—a bit ahead of fashion—and wearing a sweater and skirt. She liked low-back evening gowns and wore them well.

A native of Parkville, Mo., she was graduated from Vassar at the age of 20. From then on she did a sort of student's tour of educational institutions, studying at Columbia University, the University of Chicago, Oberlin, Williams College, Mt. Holyoke and others.

She was sandwiched in teaching at Monticello Seminary in Gorey, Ill., the Francis Parker School in Chicago, Tusculum College in Greeneville, Tenn., Bryn Mawr, Centre College in Danville, Ky., and Asheville, N. C., Normal School. Her subjects ranged from French to sociology.

She has been dean of women at Centre College and at Oberlin. It was from the latter that she went in 1936 to Wellesley to become that college's second youngest president.

She is a member-at-large of the Advisory Educational Council, made up of eight nationally-known women, that is assisting naval officers in drawing up requirements for the women's reserve and in planning for their training.

At Northampton, Mass., President Herbert Davis of Smith College announced that the sailor-ettes' first officers' training unit would be established there early in October. The course will last four months.

Working balance included $2,588,130,002.83; customs receipts for month $2,827,240.06; receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $712,543,749.23; expenditures for fiscal year $4,802,112,514.95; excess of expenditures $4,089,568.76; total debt $81,484,512.25; increase over previous day $235,714,314.19; gold assets $22,745,943,415.96.

Full Support Promised

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder, told a Senate committee today that Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, had promised "full support" of his program to build giant troop and cargo carrying planes in his shipyards. Nelson "wants to know, of course, if it is possible to get the men and materials" to do the job, Kaiser said.

Nippon Masses 400,000 Troops in Manchukuo in Preparation for Big Offensive

(By The Associated Press)

British military quarters declared today that Japan had massed nearly 400,000 troops in Manchukuo opposite the 1,000-mile Soviet frontier and said "there is little doubt they are planning to attack."

These quarters predicted that the Japanese would make at least three drives in an attempt to isolate the Siberian port of Vladivostok, which lies only 700 miles across the sea of Japan from Tokyo.

"August and September are the best months for campaigning in that area," the source said, "and the Japanese inactivity in all other spheres except the North Pacific indicates Siberia is their objective for the last half of 1942."

Aside from aerial operations and a minor Japanese land thrust toward the allied outpost of Port Moresby, in New Guinea, the whole far Pacific theater has been ominously quiet for weeks.

In Australia, Gen Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported the biggest outburst of aerial warfare since the Coral Sea battle, with American airmen destroying nine out of 49 Japanese raiders over Port Darwin, setting another enemy transport aflame off New Guinea and shooting up the transport's destroyers escort.

Allied heavy bombers pounced on the transport 100 miles off Gona Mission, the scene of the Japanese landing last week, and scored five direct hits, leaving the ship spouting flames visible for 30 miles.

The destroyer escort was then machine-gunned from low level and her anti-aircraft guns silenced, a communique said.

Allied headquarters said that for the first time in several days there was no ground activity at Kokoda, midway between Gona Mission and Port Moresby, indicating that the Japanese were hesitating in their thrust across the Papua Peninsula.

In China, Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters reported that the Japanese lost four bombers and three new zero-type fighters under the guns of U. S. air force fighters when the enemy twice attempted to raid Hengyang airdrome yesterday.

General Electric Has Blackout Light

Schenectady, N. Y., July 31 (AP)—General Electric Company engineers announced today perfection of a "blackout" street light that sheds light equal to about one-sixtieth of the illumination of a full moon.

A. F. Dickinson, head of the General Electric light division, said the lights will be "completely invisible" to enemy fliers, and will be "just enough, no more, to keep a person on his homeward path."

They are also safe from flying shell fragments and debris, he added. They contain no glass, "only a small amount of plastics and cast iron."

New York, July 31 (AP)—Looks like the question of whether jets or sprays are better for putting out fire bombs is all water under the bridge now.

Jets Win Over Sprays by 50 Seconds In Putting Out Incendiary Bombs

The controversy over whether to use a solid stream or a splatter of water to extinguish incendiary explosives had Director James N. Landis of the office of civilian defense and Mayor F. H. La Guardia championing, respectively, the jets and spray.

Landis wasn't present last night when the New York city fire department tested both methods before 1,200 air raid wardens and civil service workers, but the mayor was there; so was Fire Commissioner Patrick Walsh, who had sided with La Guardia.

"I'll leave everything up to Commissioner Walsh," the city's chief executive said after the demonstration.

Blanket, Glasses And Army Pass Clues in Murder

Chief Angle Investigated Is Who Made Phone Call to Woman Tuesday Night

Discovery of an automobile blanket and glasses worn by Mrs. Yolanda Stroncone about a mile from the place where her mutilated body was found at Tucker's Corners on Wednesday, sent officers off today on a wide investigation which included one of the large army camps in the east.

Near the place where the blanket and glasses were found was also a pass issued for entrance to one of the army camps. The pass was dated several days prior to the day of the murder of Mrs. Stroncone and whether it had been used was not ascertained.

One theory advanced was that the pass may have been in her possession or in the possession of one of the persons who were at the scene of the murder and may have been lost from a car at the time the blanket was removed. There is also a possibility that the pass had been thrown from a passing car and is in no way connected with persons involved in the crime.

Thursday an investigation was conducted in Brooklyn, New York, and also in New Jersey, but the night scene of activities was in Ulster county, and has not been shown cause for being discharged by writ of habeas corpus.

The opinion then said: "The motions for leave to file petitions for writs of habeas corpus are denied."

"The orders of the district court are affirmed. The mandates are directed to issue forthwith."

The court's announcement explained: "The court has fully considered the questions raised in these cases and thoroughly argued at the bar, and has reached its conclusion upon them."

"It now announces its decision and enters its judgment in each case, in advance of the preparation of a full opinion which necessarily will require a considerable period of time for its preparation and which, when prepared, will be filed with the clerk."

Final Arguments Begin

The military commission trying the eight prisoners heard the opening of final arguments today. Attorney General Biddle and Colonel Kenneth C. Royall, who had argued the case before the supreme court, came to court, however, to hear the decision, after the commission took a two-hour luncheon recess.

Biddle said arguments before the commission might be finished quickly and the commission's verdict go to the President next week. Royall, however, said he did not know whether proceedings could be wound up that soon.

The commission set 1:30 p. m. for a resumption of the arguments.

The short session was devoted to summing up arguments of the lawyers in the case, based on evidence presented in the long hearings which began July 8.

The eight supreme court justices, weighing the case—Justice Murphy disqualified himself because of his present service in the army—went into a two-hour conference immediately after two days of arguments had been completed yesterday and this circumstance led to the expectation of a speedy decision. In adjourning the special term until today, however, the court made no announcement as to when its ruling would be issued.

Before the court were two questions, submitted in the prisoners' briefs: "May the petitioners (six of whom are enemy aliens) maintain this proceeding for a writ of habeas corpus?"

"If so, are the petitioners unlawfully restrained of their liberty?"

The parenthetical phrase was that of the defense. They contended that the youngest prisoner, Herbert Hans Haupt, 22, was an American citizen; the prosecution disputed this, contending that he had joined the German army, in which case he would automatically forfeit his citizenship. An eighth prisoner, George John Dasch, did not seek the supreme court's intervention.

Detention of Nazis and Manner of Their Trial Are Legal

Washington, July 31 (AP)—The seven alleged Nazi saboteurs lost today in their effort to escape jurisdiction of President Roosevelt's military commission by appeal to the supreme court.

Chief Justice Stone announced that the court denied the prisoners' motion to file writs of habeas corpus.

Only seven of the eight accused saboteurs sought the writ.

The court's opinion found: "That the charges preferred against petitioners on which they are being tried by a military commission appointed by the order of the President on July 2, 1942, allege an offense or offenses which the President is authorized to order tried before a military commission."

"That the military commission was lawfully constituted."

"That petitioners are held in lawful custody, for trial before the military commission, and have not shown cause for being discharged by writ of habeas corpus."

The opinion then said: "The motions for leave to file petitions for writs of habeas corpus are denied."

Industrial Expert Addresses Kiwanis

Joint Meeting With Lions and Rotary August 13

Adelbert Loux, industrial specialist, from the Albany office of the War Production Board, reminded Kiwanians Thursday afternoon that this country is now in a condition of "total war," although some still do not appear to be aware of the fact. He referred to the conflicting information that had been given out regarding the war effort and the confusion that exists in many quarters. Saying that a lot of people do not realize the tremendous job that already has been accomplished, he stated that expenditures for war materials this year would approximate 45 billions of dollars, while in 1943 the total would reach 75 billions. The number of persons employed in war production this year will reach 12,000,000, going up to 17,000,000 by 1943.

We are "shooting the works," he said, adding that there is nothing else to do if we desire to retain our lives and liberties. Mr. Loux told of the changed procedure in awarding war contracts, the old procedure of advertising for bids having been followed up till spring, while today most awards are being made through negotiated contracts. Speed in delivery, not price, was said to be the main object today. Kiwanians were told that there has been a steady move toward decentralization in recent months. A number of regional districts have been established, New York and northern New Jersey comprising one region. More and more work is being put up to regional offices, to relieve the congestion and confusion at Washington.

At the Albany office facilities records for most of the plants in 26 counties are on file, with reports on critical machine tools obtainable. The office also has on occasions is able to assist contractors in making financial arrangements; there is a large priority department, and there are six engineers, or industrial specialists. In regard to sub-contract work Mr. Loux said that such work is not available to everybody who has machine tools, but that some 30 prime contractors and over 100 sub-contractors had been assigned in this district to obtain contracts. Many contractors have asked for contracts, but have not been successful. It was stated, because "there is no place in the picture for them, so far."

Recently a small war plant organization has been set up and attempts will be made to fit small businesses into the strict war economy if possible, the speaker said, but he reminded his hearers that "we are not a relief agency." In conclusion, Mr. Loux said that the main job to "get goods to fight with, no matter who produces them, or how, or when, or where." He quoted the question which, he said, was on a card which hangs over the desk in Donald Nelson's office—"A year from now what will we wish we had done today?"

Joint Meeting August 13 Joe Deegan, for the program committee, announced that on Thursday, August 13, the meeting would be a joint meeting with Rotary and Lions participating. He read a letter from Bernard A. Culleton, deputy commissioner, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, stating John Splain, newly appointed Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, had agreed to come to Kingston and address the joint meeting on the subject of "Transportation."

Veteran Teacher Tells How Japs Treated Him in Prison During Winter Internment

(The following dispatch by Joseph Dynan, who was a member of the Associated Press staff at Tokyo, is based on an interview with a fellow repatriate from Japan, Dr. Harry W. Myers, who was a teacher at the Presbyterian Seminary at Kobe when Japan went to war with the United States.)

(Both are now enroute to the United States from Laurence Marques, Portuguese East Africa, where they were among a group exchanged for Japanese nationals from the United States. The dispatch was filed from the ex-christian station.)

(Dr. Myers was born in 1874 at Lexington, Va., and was graduated from the University of Virginia and also studied at the Presbyterian Seminary at Louisville, Ky., before going to the air East on the same boat that carried Commodore Dewey to his command of the Asiatic station in 1898—an event leading up to Dewey's destruction of the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay.)

Dr. Myers, who had made Japan his home since then, has a daughter, Mrs. George Dickey, of Bronxville, N. Y.)

By JOSEPH DYNAN

Laurence Marques, July 28 (Delayed) (AP)—Smilingly and without a visible trace of bitterness, Dr. Harry W. Myers, 68, told me today how he remained unbroken in the face of Japanese threats to shoot him unless he confessed to charges of espionage.

"Go ahead, I am ready," Myers told his guards. Their bluff called, the Japanese gave up.

That was in February and already the missionary-teacher had started losing his toenails and his ankles were swollen with an incipient threat of gangrene from long hours of sitting in the knee-strained fashion enforced by his jailers.

Moreover, he was half-famished at the time from the crude prison fare and had been slapped frequently throughout the examination in January and early February.

Since boarding the repatriation boat he has been told by a physician that he had barely escaped losing both feet. In all, he had spent six months in jail, separated from his wife who suffers from paralysis. That was the final chapter of a 45-year career of teaching in Japan.

Myers, a teacher at the Presbyterian Seminary at Kobe, was arrested on December 8 and taken to a cold, drafty detention house. A month later he was taken to the district station and thrust into a cold barren cell where his clothing was taken and he was left to wear a prison kimono and sleep under one "futon" or Japanese blanket.

There he was examined for one month on the three charges against him, forced to sit on his heels during the long periods of questioning.

Among Accusations

Myers was accused of concealing assets, of maligning the Japanese army and of espionage. It was the third charge which evoked the frequent slappings and other efforts to gain a confession.

The professor said he admitted the first charge, explaining that two years earlier he had given a Japanese friend sufficient funds to support himself and his wife until retirement. This he had not reported to the authorities.

The second charge—maligning the army—arose, Myers said, from the fact that he had received a letter from a fellow missionary describing the Japanese occupation of Nanking which he had shown to various Japanese teachers at the Kobe Seminary at their request.

Myers said that the only basis for the spying charge was his friendliness with the British and American consuls at Kobe who frequently aided Presbyterian missionary work.

"They also were convinced that I was a spy because a year and a half before I took Sunday school classes on a 36-hour picnic on an island of the Inland Sea. There were only prayers, Bible studies and a good time," Myers said.

The police said that the fact Myers had asked to go to the island proved he knew there was an arsenal on the island.

In February Myers' case was turned over to a Japanese prosecutor. The espionage charge was dropped for lack of evidence and he was convicted on the two other counts—concealing assets and maligning the army. He was sentenced to six months' and 10 days imprisonment which he started to serve on April 2.

After that Myers was allowed some food from the outside and also some western clothes. By then he had lost 30 pounds. The Japanese food was of the poorest sort, he said, and milk and an orange from the outside which he had with each meal "were the only things that saved my life."

On May 1 he was transferred to prison at Osaka where the rules, though more strict, were more endurable.

Myers, extremely worried over his wife's health, went on a two-day hunger strike in early December in an effort to gain permission to communicate with her. Finally his guards permitted him to send her a postcard. This card resulted finally in his receipt of additional funds. He was released a week before the departure of the repatriates from Japan and Mrs. Myers is with him now.

His memory of Christmas eve in jail is a sharp one.

"I whistled 'Silent Night,' 'Adeste' and other carols softly through the prison stillness," Myers recalled. "The guards came and shrieked to cut it off. The next day, in passing Japanese prisoners at the staircase, one of them, a personal friend, braved the wrath of the guards by whispering, 'Thanks for Christmas!'"

Stalin Revealed

Soviet Defense

Plans to Hopkins

Philadelphia, July 30 (AP)—Premier Joseph Stalin "unlocked the inner chamber of Soviet defense secrets" for Harry Hopkins, personal adviser to President Roosevelt, a year ago this month, and promised to "stand firm against Nazi aggression," an article in the August issue of the Ladies' Home Journal relates.

The article entitled "How War Came" and written by Furst Davis and Ernest K. Lindley, Washington writers, says Hopkins first communicated the vital secret information to the President, who passed it on to Prime Minister Churchill in his historic Atlantic conference.

"The President, optimistic by nature," the article continues, "received detailed circumstantial news of the magnitude of Russia's force and her effort with something like elation. Churchill, too, was rejoiced."

But, the writers add, American and British military and naval leaders at the conference "still dazzled by Brauchitsch, found it hard to accept Stalin's announcement that the Nazis could not take Moscow in 1941. Field Marshal Walter Von Brauchitsch was former commander in chief of the German army."

By the third day of the meeting, however, the article says "it was agreed that Russia, by holding out through the winter, would enormously assist the western powers."

The article relates that Churchill first suggested that Hopkins go to Russia at his second visit to London in July, 1941. President Roosevelt approved and Hopkins arrived in Moscow a year ago tonight.

In two sessions at the Kremlin, Stalin paraded "before Hopkins" astonished sight—endless tables, charts, reports and other evidence of Russian armed and industrial might."

The Soviet chieftain also told Hopkins, the article adds, that he could go anywhere he wished—to the front or to factories—"and find out if I have shown you is true."

"They will never," said Stalin, "get to Moscow this year." Hopkins was inclined to agree.

Stalin then handed Hopkins the note to Mr. Roosevelt in which he promised to stand firm against the Nazis and asked Hopkins "not to disclose the secrets he had just learned to anyone short of President Roosevelt. The President could then do as he liked with the information."

To keep rice, macaroni or spaghetti from becoming pasty and gummy, rinse the dry product well before cooking, put it into a large amount of boiling water, drain it in a colander as soon as done, rinse it quickly with water, and if necessary to keep it hot for a time before serving place it over hot water or in an oven.

Foremanship Training In War Industries

Albany—Foremanship training courses, similar to one recently completed at a large upstate industrial plant (International Business Machines Corporation at Endicott), are being conducted in New York state under the supervision of the Industrial Service Bureau of the State Education Department. In this one plant the suggestion made on operational procedures by the foremen have already contributed greatly to the production program, according to plant officials, who are planning to organize another program immediately for another group of foremen and other supervisory employees chosen by the management.

This was announced by Oakley Furney, Assistant Commissioner for Vocational Education of the State Education Department, who is also director of New York State's war production training.

The Industrial Service Bureau, through this program, helps the plants to survey their training needed and recommends a program tailored to fit each organization and provides supervision or advisory service for the instructional program.

"As a result of such foreman training courses, a double objective is immediately served," declared Mr. Furney. "The members of the supervisory force obtain a better understanding of management problems and procedures which must be followed on war production orders and management receives an organized means of procuring ideas from the foremen on how to improve production."

The Industrial Service Bureau service is available without charge to any industry in the state upon application to the Bureau. Inquiries should be addressed to Arthur L. Mann, Chief Industrial Service Bureau, State Education Department, Albany, N. Y.

Russian Dandelion

State College, Pa. (P)—Experimentation of a rubber substitute, a Russian dandelion, called kok-saghyz, is progressing at the Pennsylvania State College Agricultural Experiment Station. The crop requires considerable handwork and is expensive to grow. The root contains a gummy substance which is converted into rubber. The whole plant is dug at harvest. In European Russia, where the plant is adapted, it produces up to 3,000 pounds of raw roots per acre, which yield 30 to 60 pounds of rubber. Sugars and other carbohydrates of the roots are used for the production of alcohol and other by-products.

THE WAR WORK BOYS

They drive recklessly, these boys who for the first time in their lives are making plenty of money in war plants, and that's bad. But most of them are cautious. And though some of them seem to buy crazily at department stores, they—or their wives—are not buying crazy things. Furniture is coming along nicely, for instance.

Then, they are saving some of this big money, and doing it wisely. Part of it goes into war bonds. More and more sign into the "Ten Per Cent Club" at the factory, which means that one-tenth of the weekly wage never touches the palm of the worker. Part goes into the banks for next year's taxes, for new babies, for down payments on new homes. Some young men are buying homes now, or paying off mortgages on the homes of their parents. Others are building up the bank balance against the end of the war, with the new homes then to be built in mind.

In short, some of these young folks are a little wild with their cash, but most of them have some sense, and some of them a good deal. They remember the depression which cramped their teens, and do not want to be cramped again.

NAZI EDUCATION

Hitler's word is not worth much, but he is pretty good authority when he tells what the Nazis are trying to do. Addressing students at Weimar, he told them, "You will pass on, but after you will come a generation that knows nothing but National Socialism."

That is what is happening to German education. Essentially it is teaching nothing but National Socialism, and the few arts that might be directly useful to that system. How could it be otherwise when the students' official organ, the Students Press Service, announces that "the universities are not supposed to be institutions of science, but the nation's spiritual battlefields for the future of our empire?" No wonder 50 per cent of the student population fell off in the six years from 1933, when Hitler came to power, and 1939. The value of the education for those who are left is attested by the letter of a Vienna student, which says: "No one with a good mark in gymnastics is allowed to flunk the other subjects."

By this perversion of education Germany is eating its intellectual seedcorn. Already in 1939 there was an alarming shortage of chemists. The German surrender to Hitler is, to that extent, bringing its own punishment.

CAMPAIGN RECORDS

One of the interesting things this year about an otherwise rather dull campaign is the covering-up process as applied to the records of senators, representatives and others in public life who were wrong before December 7. The Washington scene is naturally the most obvious, because that is where governmental power is centered and because Washington, ever since the present world war started, has been the greatest listening post in the world.

The lawmakers who fought American preparedness and denounced foresighted men as "warmongers" right up to the murderous assault at Pearl Harbor are naturally busy now demonstrating their patriotic zeal and comprehension. But they do not go unscathed. Voters, even while granting their good faith, question their intelligence. People persist in asking such embarrassing questions as, if they did not understand the world situation and the American peril before, how can the public be sure that they understand it now?

This is a time when, more than any other time in American history, public men need to know what is going on in the world and where American interests lie.

NORTH AMERICAN DEFENSE

It has been reassuring to learn that units of the Canadian army and squadrons of the Royal Canadian air force are now in Alaska, sharing with United States troops and flyers the defense of that vital bastion of North America. It is a natural situation, because whatever safeguards American interests in that region also protects Canada.

From now on, it may be assumed, defense of the two countries as a whole will be meshed to any extent found desirable, on any front. Politically separate, each nation preserving its own free institutions, the two will function as one in facing external danger from any quarter. There is no definite treaty to this effect. But the two nations are more closely joined by common culture, spirit, language and institutions, and by neighborly intercourse and trade, than they could be by any formal pact.

Affiliation with Mexico on our southern border is not so close, because of greater difference in language and culture. Yet it is of much the same nature, with mutual confidence, and bonds steadily growing stronger. The Mexicans know that the United States, in case of danger, will unite with them to safeguard their freedom against any aggression.

ROOM FOR RETREAT

One thing it is well to keep in mind, in that cosmic struggle now going on in Russia, is that the Germans, if they are to win, must win quickly, whereas the Russians can play for time.

The Nazis could hardly endure another Russian winter with the enemy still unconquered, and a longer line than ever for Hitler to hold. The Russians still have plenty of room for retreat. They can walk backward, fighting all the way, for another thousand miles if they have to. They destroy as they go, in the famous "scorched earth" manner used long ago against Napoleon. They are harder than the Germans and can live and fight on less food and war material.

Moreover, the farther eastward the Nazis are drawn, the more peril they have at their backs and the better chance the Allies have to establish their second front by land, air and sea. Thus, although the Free Nations would rather stand fast than retreat, the situation is probably not so catastrophic as it looks to most people. A forced Nazi retreat from the Caspian Sea and the Ural Mountains might be as bad as Napoleon's retreat from Moscow.

If the Russians hold that line, the Nazis will be eating snowballs next winter.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

EMOTIONS CAN DISTURB ORGANS

I have spoken before of the great number of cases of stomach and digestive cases, particularly stomach and intestinal ulcer, that are returning from the war area. These men are not afraid in the sense of fear of death, but the constant worry about the war itself, the strangeness of the war life, thoughts of loved ones at home, all put such a strain on their nervous system that stomach and intestinal digestion and absorption of digested food into the blood is disturbed and delayed.

There is also the diet to be considered as some foods are "rougher" than others, and these foods, while necessary because of their minerals and vitamins, and the prevention of constipation, nevertheless can irritate the walls of stomach and intestine.

Now, just as our soldiers can be upset by emotional disturbances, even more can civilians because soldiers, generally speaking, have more calmness of spirit and control of the emotions.

Fortunately, most physicians today recognize the effect of the emotions upon the whole nervous system and the organs supplied by the nerves, particularly the stomach, intestine, heart and bloodvessels.

There is something about high strung nervous individuals, something acquired perhaps as civilization progresses, that makes him more keenly conscious, sympathetic, or aware of himself and his surroundings and circumstances, than when life was more simple.

It is known that about one-half of patients consulting a physician have no organic disease and in about one-fourth of the cases seen by a consultant the cause of the symptoms is this tenseness or awareness together with worry, strain, and fatigue. Dr. Walter Alvarez, Mayo Clinic, in Clinical Medicine, states that while older physicians recognize the need for treating the patient as a whole, there is still great need for training young physicians to recognize promptly these nervous and emotional patients so as to keep from operating on them or doing too many things for them.

Most of us have experienced the effect on the heart, stomach, urinary bladder, and intestine of sudden shock or fear. What we do not realize is that prolonged shock or fear (which is really worry) can affect the workings of all the organs of the body, perhaps less severely, but just as surely.

Diet Suggestions in Peptic Ulcer

One of the most important factors in overcoming peptic ulcer is acquiring a calm outlook. There are also some diet suggestions which have helped many cases. Send today for this new leaflet of Dr. Barton's entitled "Diet Suggestions in Peptic Ulcer." Just send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Barton, Post Office Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y., and ask for your leaflet by name.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

By JOHN SELBY

"JANE'S FIGHTING SHIPS," edited by Francis E. McMurtrie.

One more sign of the times comes with publication in the United States, for the first time, of "Jane's Fighting Ships." This is the edition of 1941, although actually it contains data assembled as late as April 9 of this year. For 45 years "Jane's Fighting Ships" has been the standard reference guide to the navies of the world. It still contains the facts of life in the great British and United States fleets, and it still concerns itself with such matters as the Costa Rican navy, which for some years had no fighting ships at all, and now appears as the owner of a 50-foot patrol vessel. This year a shrinkage is to be noted in the pages devoted to the German navy. It seems, according to the editor, that Germany has done little to replace ships lost in action, except submarines.

The Italian navy also is shrinking, the editor remarks calmly, and the gaps in the Italian list would be still wider if it were possible to identify the cruisers and destroyers known to have been sunk by the Royal Navy in the Mediterranean. The editor believes that not more than half Italy's cruisers survive, and he further believes that very little replacement has been possible because of the known shortage of steel and other metals in Italy.

Considering the circumstances, the information on the Japanese navy is extraordinarily complete, although the editor admits a good deal of puzzlement, and wipes off the slate, practically speaking, the 2-man submarine which in an earlier edition he had considered at some length. The little fish just don't work. And of all the neutral nations, Sweden is apparently the only one attempting much naval construction.

Some high enterprise has gone into making this book, and an enormous amount of routine care. When the "final addenda" on a tipped-in page just ahead of the foreword are considered, the book becomes the most accurate picture available of the world naval situation up to early April. Short sentences sometimes carry considerable power, too. "Twenty-one submarines destroyed by United States forces in Atlantic up to April 2, 1942," is one of these.

There Are No Such Things As Excess Profits Viewed From Any Standpoint Today, Writer Declares

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 31 — Some dollar of net income in 1941 and 27 cents in 1940.

"The portion of industrial corporation income taken by federal taxes," says the National City letter, "is now far above that ever reached in the past. During the last war federal taxes absorbed 23 per cent of the national income of all manufacturing operations in 1917, and 45 per cent in 1918 and 26 per cent in 1919."

Other factors, of course, besides taxes are causing the drop in net income, such as the narrowing of profit margins due to price ceilings and the fact that they were made high-er the expenses of the war could be met without either a sales tax or further taxation of the persons in the moderate or lower income groups.

The corporation returns mean, moreover, that dividends will be cut to hundreds of thousands of persons who have invested in American industry. In the face of these facts, well known to the treasury and informed persons, the war labor board has the temerity to insist that wages must be "stabilized" upward so as to compensate for increases in the cost of living as compared with normal, peacetime standards.

At a time when hourly earnings are weekly are the highest in industrial history, a pay increase is ordered by the administration for a minority of its citizens while the vast majority suffer either a payroll cut in the form of declining dividend or interest rates or a cut in real wages due to increases in the cost of living for which the government does not compensate them.

This unequal treatment of the citizens is a flagrant example of mismanagement by the administration in power of the economic affairs of the nation, and it is one of the reasons why political profiteering is being so widely denounced as a factor disturbing to national unity.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — No matter what other little niche Henry A. Wallace gets in the hall of fame, he'll go down as the tie-breaking vice president this country has ever had.

The "ninety-seventh senator" as the V.-P. is sometimes called can vote only in case of a tie. Some vice presidents have never had an opportunity to toss in their deadlocking vote, or may not.

Vice President Garner, for instance, stuck around eight years with only one chance to knock the bottom out of a tie vote. But in some 20 months in office, Mr. Wallace has cast his vote in the Senate five times. That may not be the 160-year-old record. But senate historians think it is.

Mr. Wallace made a very poor start as a tie-breaker. When his first opportunity came last year, he was out having lunch. It was a measure important to the administration, too. But the boys fixed it up. They reconsidered. And on the second vote, Wallace was in the chair.

That reconsideration saved him from falling into the class with Vice President Curtis. The latter once had his chance to break a tie on an administration favored bill—but couldn't be found. He was taking a nap—a real one.

Several weeks ago the Senate considered the bill to kill the Civilian Conservation Corps. The vote was 50-50 again and Wallace stepped in to save the C.C.C. temporarily at least. It wasn't his fault that it was afterward knocked out in a House-Senate committee conference.

By the time the vote came up recently on whether the Senate should have the right to confirm all Office of Civilian Defense employees earning more than $4,500 a year, the vice president was a veteran at busting up the legislative ball game. He knocked the ball out of the park, leaving the O.C.D. to do its upper bracket hiring without senatorial interference.

He could have rested on his laurels there, but it was only a few days later that the Senate split 30 to 30 on a vote which would have rubbed out the Florida barge canal. His vote was for it.

There was only one difficulty here: the vote was on a motion to amend, which, like some other votes, loses in case of a tie. At that point the canal didn't need saving—it already had been—but the V.-P. got in his say anyway.

The epidemic of tie votes, according to some Senate ancients, is the result of the breakdown in party lines. Only on rare occasions these days do the members of either house vote strictly along party lines. Republicans often vote with the administration and there's hardly a ballot when the Democratic side of both chambers is sprinkled generously with votes against administration measures.

Expect Thousands Of Openings for Building Workers

New York, July 30—Thousands of upstate openings for building and construction workers are expected by the United States Employment Service in the next few weeks, according to Richard C. Brockway, director for New York state.

These jobs will be on several large government projects now in progress or about to start, and on new units projected by expanding industrial plants.

Construction workers are needed immediately upstate for a large Army project and for several industrial construction jobs. Within the next few weeks, Mr. Brockway said, another very large government project is to be started in midstate which is expected to employ more than 20,000 persons at peak. Several other projects employing thousands more are also about to get under way.

Mr. Brockway urged all building and construction workers to register with the United States Employment Service so that they will be available for these jobs when the call comes. Reports have been received that in many upstate communities, the supply of such workers is nearly exhausted, and Mr. Brockway said local offices of the U. S. E. S. in all parts of the state will be selecting workers and directing them to the areas where men are needed.

Mr. Brockway also warned construction workers who may have registered at one time or another with the Employment Service, but who have failed to keep their registration active by regular reporting, to go immediately to the employment office to make sure their registrations are renewed, so they will be called as needed.

A large number of the needed construction workers will probably be drawn from New York city where there is a large supply of almost all types of building and construction workers. New construction is practically at a minimum in the metropolitan area, although some new projects are planned in the Long Island and Brooklyn sections.

Besides carpenters, plumbers, linemen who can work on high wires, general construction electricians and pipe fitters, Mr. Brockway said there will also be openings for technical people, such as engineers, draftsmen, surveyors and architects.

Information regarding openings will be released to all U. S. E. S. offices when hiring for each project is about to start.

Pertinent Facts On Conscription

In a bulletin issued today from state headquarters, Brigadier General Ames T. Brown, New York state director of selective service, declared that 22 days is the least possible time that must elapse from and including the day a registrant is classified in Class 1-A to and including the earliest day he shall be required to report for induction.

The reason for this General Brown stated, is that two periods of ten days each must be allowed, the first for time to appeal from classification and the second to give the registrant an opportunity to prepare to leave for induction. In addition, if the registrant is inducted, a furlough—the maximum period approximately 14 days—is possible before reporting to the initial 10-day period in which to appeal his classification, if he so desires. Any other person entitled to appeal, such as an employer who has filed a Form 42A on behalf of an employee, may utilize the appeal period to raise the question of the registrant's classification. The local board will not mail to the registrant a notice of induction until the expiration of the 10 days allowed for appeal," General Brown said. But he added:

"Registrants are well advised to take into consideration that section of Selective Service Regulations (Section 641.3) which reads as follows:

"It shall be the duty of each registrant to keep his local board advised at all times of the address where mail will reach him. The mailing of any order, notice, or blank form by the local board to a registrant at the address last reported by him to the local board shall constitute notice to him of the contents of the communication, whether he actually receives it or not."

"Any registrant who fails to notify his local board of a change of his mailing address penalizes only himself," General Brown concluded.

Davis's Office Checks Dispute

Ickes Says Dean Doesn't Know His Oil; Davis Gags Henderson

Washington, July 31 (AP)—An apparent verbal duel between Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Interior Secretary Ickes has been headed off by the Office of War Information, in accordance with its recent offer to help "harmonize" the views of government officials.

The thrust was made (by Ickes) but the parry (by Henderson) was stayed.

It started when Ickes took sharp issue with a nationwide gasoline rationing program which Joel Dean, OPA rationing executive, said he and Henderson had endorsed and submitted to President Roosevelt.

Asserting that nationwide rationing "won't help the east now," Ickes said:

"I don't think Dean is an expert either in the production or transportation of petroleum and it is very embarrassing for anyone to make a statement of that sort when he doesn't know the facts, and I don't agree with his conclusions."

Shortly afterward reporters were informed that Henderson was preparing a statement. Then the Office of War Information announced that "there will be no statement."

Director Elmer Davis of the OWI, it was recalled, recently told a press conference that "if two eminent men in the government fundamentally disagree, this office will lend its assistance to them, if so desired, to see if they can possibly harmonize their views before they get to the stage of publication."

Superphosphate Is Now Available for Ulster Farmers

A limited amount of 20 per cent superphosphate is available to farmers in Ulster county under the 1943 Agricultural Conservation program. Orders for this material must be placed not later than August 5. Farmers who want superphosphate should order now, as we are not certain that any more will be available. This material will be shipped from the siding to their farm. Sidings to which it will be shipped are: Saugerties, Kingston, Accord, Kerhonkson, Clintondale, Gardiner and Wallkill.

The total cash cost to the farmer is $2 per ton for administrative expenses. Farmers who received lime or superphosphate under the 1942 program must have applied that material before ordering any more.

This superphosphate will not be furnished to farms unless they have livestock or fruit, or in some way are producing food or farm products contributing to the National War Effort.

Below is a list of meetings at which orders will be taken. No orders will be taken after the last meeting or August 5. Meetings are from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Christmas Greetings Are Aimed at Axis

New York, July 31 (AP)—It's a little early, but we thought you'd like to know what kind of Christmas cards you'll get this year.

The familiar red, white and green will give way to the patriotic red, white and blue, the greeting card industry announced today.

Furthermore, fat old Santa Claus will be replaced by skinny Uncle Sam's bewhiskered countenance, and the cards, even though Christmas stands for "Peace on earth and good will toward men," may contain the warlike slogans:

"Trap the Jap."
"Paste the Paperhanger."
"Muzzle Mussolini."

Gould Heads State Taxpayer Association

Albany, July 30 — Norman J. Gould, former Congressman of Seneca Falls, was named chairman of the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, statewide taxpayer group, at the summer meeting of the Survey's Board of Trustees, it was announced today. The organization also elected as its president James H. Moseley, president of the Federation of Westchester Taxpayers Associations, Inc.

Mr. Gould who has been a trustee of the survey for the past two years succeeds J. Irvine Lyle of Syracuse who died in June.

L. Richard Gullay, a member of the New York State Legislative Economy Commission, is executive vice-president of the organization. Mr. Moseley, the new president, was organizer and first chairman of the committee of 100 of Yonkers. He retired from the Yonkers taxpayer group in November 1941 at which time he was presented a scroll by the committee for distinguished service in the interest of good government in Yonkers. He succeeds Walter M. Franklin of Larchmont who resigned.

"Never has there been greater need for organized taxpayer activity in the public life of our nation," commented Mr. Gould. "The fabulous public spending for war which is accompanied by considerable unnecessary spending places upon taxpayers the responsibility of close cooperation with public officials to avoid waste which would jeopardize the nation's security. Through the efforts of taxpayer organizations led by the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey and with the support of the Legislature and Governor, spending has been brought under sane control in New York. The state now has a $54,000,000 surplus even after drastically reducing the personal income tax and eliminating a real estate tax. This is a splendid example for the rest of the country but eternal vigilance will be required in New York to keep up the good record. Even now numerous schemes for spending the state's surplus are being formulated."

On the Survey's Board of Trustees in addition to Mr. Gould and Mr. Moseley are A. Vedder Magee of Schenectady; Walter O. Howe of Olean; George W. Brooks of Norwich; Wilson R. Campbell of Bath; Henry M. Champion of Greene; Avery Claffin of New York; Samuel W. McCochrane of Troy; Hart I. Seely of Waverly; George H. Spring of Ticonderoga; Dr. Charles M. Woodburn of Binghamton; Mrs. Martha Chalmers Mills of Broadbent; and Harry M. Hooker of Niagara Falls.

Mr. Franklin was elected "honorary president," a new post.

One of the features of the meeting will be a discussion of wartime problems faced by farmers and what they are doing to meet them.

"All members of the family are invited to the meeting," Mr. Roosa said, adding that entertainment and refreshments will be provided.

In addition to Mr. Hardenbergh and Mr. Hunt, other committee members working with Mr. Roosa in planning and preparing for the meeting are Ganse Beach, Ernest Jansen and Festus Yeaple, all of High Falls.

Children Report House Haunted, Police Find It Is

Emaciated Tenant of Tiny Cubicle Admits He Bludgeoned Owner, Killed Him

Denver, July 31 (AP)—The mystery of a house which children believed was haunted has been solved, police say, by the arrest of an emaciated, half-starved man who admitted he lived in a tiny attic cubicle of the vacated dwelling for nine months after beating the owner to death.

Matthew Cornish, 59, unkempt and haggard, was captured yesterday in the home of Philip Peters, 73-year-old retired railroad auditor, who was found there, slain, last October 17.

Detective Capt. James E. Childers said Cornish, former advertising man from Tazewell, N. Y., confessed he bludgeoned Peters with a gun and poker after Peters caught him looting his icebox.

Police, investigating complaints of eerie sounds and strange ghost lights in the Peters home, found Cornish in a cubbyhole four feet wide, seven feet long, with roof so low a man could not sit upright.

Barefoot and dressed in rags, Cornish told arresting officers he had not had food for several days. He weighed 75 pounds.

Cornish said, Childers reported, that he lived in the cubicle for a month before the slaying, without the knowledge of Peters, and that he seldom left the dwelling in the following months.

Mrs. Peters, in a hospital when her husband was killed, returned to her home and lived there for several months but she never detected the presence of the attic dweller. She now lives with a son in Grand Junction, Colo.

Childers said no charges had been filed, pending investigation.

An Irishman went into a jeweler's to purchase a gold ring.

Salesman—Eighteen carat? Irishman—No, you're wrong. I've been eating onions.

Health is the major asset of all of us today, worth more than all our property.

Two gangsters were escorting a member of a rival gang across a lonely field on a dark and rainy night.

Doomed Man (grumbling)—What rats you are, making me walk through the rain like this.

Escort (growling)—How about us? We've got to walk back.

A young man whose father had been hanged was faced with filling out a life insurance application form. After the usual questions inquiring about hereditary diseases there was one asking for the cause of death of his parents. He pondered and finally put down this answer: "Mother died of pneumonia. Father was taking part in a public function, when the platform gave way."

No Information for the Enemy.

Fred—Say, do you want a job? Amos—No, I am working.

Fred—What are you doing? Amos—Oh, this and that.

Fred—Now and then. Amos—Where?

Fred—Here and there.

A business man advertised for an office boy. The next morning there were some fifty boys in line. He was about to begin examining the applicants, when he was handed a card on which was scribbled: "I can do anything until you see me. I'm the last boy in line, but I'm telling you I am there with the goods."

Visiting Minister—Well, my little man, I suppose you always do as your mother tells you.

Junior—You bet I do, and so does Daddy.

Three Days to Return Form About Workers

Albany, N. Y., July 30 —Employers now have only three "business" days in which to return to the Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance a form stating why a former employee who applies for unemployment insurance was separated from the payroll.

This ruling is in accordance with an amended Regulation of the New York State Unemployment Insurance Law, reducing the time limit from seven days, announced today by Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller.

The regulation is designed to tighten control over benefit claims and to insure that the statutory suspension period of seven weeks is imposed on those who are separated from the payroll because of misconduct or an industrial controversy.

The form on which the employer makes his statement is furnished by the Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance, and is mailed to the last employer of every eligible unemployment insurance claimant, even though the employer himself may not be subject to the New York State Unemployment Insurance Law. It is to be returned in every instance.

To Demonstrate Methods

New York, July 30 (AP)—The New York Fire Department will attempt tonight to settle at least to its own satisfaction a controversy over the respective merits of a jet or a spray method of fighting incendiary bombs.

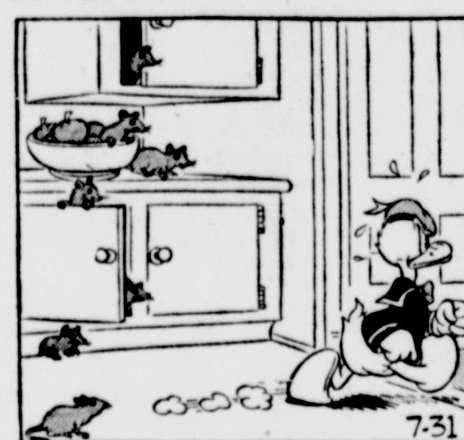

Both methods will be demonstrated before 1,200 city employees at Randall's Island Stadium to determine whether it is better to direct a strong stream of water on blazing magnesium or slowly smother the molten bomb with a fine spray.

Rockland Power Customers
Will Read Own Meters

Nyack, N. Y., July 31 (AP)—The Rockland Light and Power Company, which serves northern Bergen county in New Jersey, Pike county in Pennsylvania and three New York counties has asked its commercial and residential customers to read their own meters for two out of each three months as a war economy measure.

The company estimates the plan, effective next week, will save 60,000 miles annually in the distance the professional meter readers normally travel.

If a customer fails to return the postal card provided for his personal meter reading, the bill will be based on the average amount paid in months past. Utility employees will adjust any customer errors when they read the meters the third month.

Farewell Party For Soldiers

Highland, July 30—Franklin J. Samuels, Thomas Rizzo, Julius Dapp, Louise LaFolce were four of the six young men leaving Wednesday for the United States army were present Monday night in the farewell party held in the auditorium of the high school. The two absent were Thomas Brescia and Russell Rhodes, the latter from Clintondale. The evening opened with a parade led by Dr. Carl Meekins with the service flag; Dick Thompson carrying the Stars and Stripes; Fred Visconti, the American Legion flag, followed by the Highland Drum Corps. Then came the four young men in a car, the high school band, the firemen with one truck and the Girl Scouts. The men were escorted to the stage of the auditorium and George P. Muller acted as temporary chairman for the opening song, "The Star Spangled Banner" with band accompaniment.

A Herbert Campbell then took over as master of ceremonies and introduced Father Fervana, who wished the men the best of luck and assured them that the prayers of those at home would follow them. The Rev. D. S. Haynes of the Presbyterian Church spoke for those present who were honoring America with them and they must stand for American ideals where ever they were. The Rev. S. A.

MacCormack of the Methodist Church told of the four stages we go through in getting ready for war: Dreaming, waking, realistic and the dying, then he told of the causes of war and added his best wishes. George Muller presented each of the boys with a portfolio containing writing materials, a small flag and cigarettes. Dr. C. F. Meekins and Ralph Lyons also spoke. Mrs. Gladys Mears was called upon but it was found she was not present. The gathering disbursed after the singing of "God Bless America" and the closing prayer by Mr. Haynes. The auditorium was nearly filled with friends and relatives of the young men.

Workers Return at Insistence of President

Berwick, Pa., July 31 (AP)—Vital maintenance service resumed today at the American Car and Foundry Company's tank plant here as striking employees returned to their jobs at the insistence of President Roosevelt.

The strike, which began early Wednesday when 1,000 workers walked out in protest over the discharge of three men, had halted the plant's intra-haulage system and seriously curtailed production of light arm tanks.

Insist there be an immediate resumption of production pending settlement of your union's dispute with the company, the President's message was quoted as saying by Roy Constine, district director of the C.I.O. United Steel Workers Union. The message was telephoned, he said, from the office of Presidential Secretary Marvin McIntyre and added:

"The strike... is a serious threat to the national tank production program. And every day the plant remains shut down spells the loss of lives of more of the men in our armed forces."

Constine read the message to a mass meeting of the strikers and they voted to return to work last midnight.

Scientific Brains Are Helping to Win War

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Wide World Features Writer

Washington—The Navy's new mystery weapon, mentioned recently by Representative Vinson, may or may not have been developed by the OSRD, but that little known four-letter agency represents the mightiest mobilization of scientific brains to help win the war in the nation's history.

Under the aegis of the Office of Scientific Research and Development, thousands of scientists work secretly in college and industrial laboratories throughout the country on new weapons and devices for the Navy and the Army.

Generalissimo of this army of scientists is Dr. Vannevar Bush, president of the Carnegie Institution and long noted electrical engineer and mathematician. Dr. Bush, an amiable homespun Yankee with a rustic drawl, says about 100 devices and formulas which have gone through OSRD research have been accepted by the Army and Navy and put into production.

While the specific nature of virtually all of these developments is a rigidly-guarded secret, one disclosed product of OSRD is the Army's new amphibious jeep. The idea of a "sea-going jeep" is not new, but improvements in its design by the OSRD eliminated mechanical difficulties which made previous models impracticable.

The OSRD has two main branches, the National Defense Research Committee and the Committee on Medical Research. The former is split into four principal divisions dealing with (1) armor and ordnance, (2) chemical problems, (3) communications and transportation and (4) detectors.

Each section has liaison officers from the Army and Navy, as well as scientists and engineers from civilian ranks, who are specialists on a particular problem.

Some 740 scientists—physicists, chemists, engineers, metallurgists and even astronomers—work for OSRD without compensation. It also has nearly 700 contracts for research jobs with 94 colleges and universities and 300 such contracts with industrial establishments.

The Committee on Medical Research, headed by Dr. A. N. Richards, of the University of Pennsylvania, makes special studies for the Army and Navy on methods of combating soldier sickness and of treating war wounds. It is searching, for example, for an effective prophylactic against malaria.

It is also studying ways of relieving the fatigue of aviators. To combat fatigue, the Germans have been using a substance called pervitin, which is a modification of benzedrine. American investigators are working on that and other substances.

A committee appointed by Secretary of War Stimson brings the high command into close contact with the country's brains. Dr. Bush is chairman of the committee and the other members are Brig. Gen. Raymond G. Moses, of the Army general staff, and Rear Admiral Willis A. Lee, assistant chief of naval operations.

Among other "big leaguers" in OSRD are Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of M.I.T.; Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard University; Dr. Frank B. Jewett, president of the National Academy of Sciences, and Dr. Richard Tolson, of California Tech.

Work Being Done At Bundles for America

The regular monthly meeting of Bundles for America committee was held yesterday at the depot, 302 Fair street. Miss Eleanor Easton presided.

Anyone interested in procuring yarn to make these articles is asked to call at the office, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 1 p. m.

Locally the Bundles for America committee has sent a box of children's clothing to the Volunteers of America for immediate use. In this way, benefits from the committee will be felt in the community.

Soloists Are Listed For Opera Production

Music lovers in this vicinity will welcome the opportunity to hear Flotow's delightful and tuneful opera, "Martha" given at the Ernest Williams Music Camp, Saturday and Sunday evenings, August 1 and 2. The performance will be given as usual in the camp auditorium and will feature four prominent soloists.

Lorraine Johnston, soprano, known to camp audiences for her work in previous opera productions, will sing the leading role of "Martha." Miss Johnston is prominent in music circles in New York city appearing on the radio, in oratorio and concert work. She was heard in last year's opera "La Traviata" at the music camp.

The Ernest Williams School of Music feels fortunate in securing Carlyle Bennett, tenor, for the leading male role in the opera. Mr. Bennett has had extended opera experience with the Chicago Opera Company and for six or seven years was in Hollywood appearing in motion pictures. Recently he has been on extended concert tour. This week he is appearing in Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury," at the Summer Playhouse in Westport, Conn.

The role of Nancy, companion to "Martha" is taken by Helen Cummins of Pittsburgh, Pa. Jesse Lillywhite, baritone, takes the role of Plunkett and the part of Sir Tristram is ably handled by Francis Peterson, a young baritone from Pittsburgh.

The orchestra will be under the direction of Dr. Ernest Williams. Cecile Jacobson has charge of producing the opera as in previous years. She has trained also the ballet number including some of the younger talent in camp.

The opera is well known and features the beloved old Irish melody "The Last Rose of Summer." In Act II, is heard some of the most beautiful music in all opera. The production is given in modern dress and sung in English.

The scenes include:
Act I, Scene I: Lady Harriet's dressing room. Scene II: The Market Square of Richmond.
Act II, Scene I: Interior of Plunkett's farmhouse. Scene II: The royal hunting forest.

Act III, Market Square.
The curtain will be at 8:30 p. m. and the camp is located near Saugerties.

Home Nursing Class of the Sixth District, town of Ulster, will sponsor a card party Tuesday evening, August 4, at 8:30 o'clock in the Town Highway Building. Proceeds will be used for the purchase of equipment for the first aid station.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

The short questionnaire which follows was sent me by the editor of a sorority paper:

1. Is it necessary to wear a hat and gloves (a) when in town or (b) on a date?
2. When and for whom does a girl of seventeen stand when introduced?

(b) When someone enters the room?

3. What is an appropriate costume for the girl in the office, or one seeking employment, cosmetics, jewelry, etc.?
4. Do you think a sweater would be proper in an office?

5. Where and how do you place knife and fork when passing plate for a second helping?

6. When in a restaurant ordering dinner, who gives the order to the waiter? Does the man, give both, or does each one order separately?

Answers:

1. (a) In a big city a hat with street clothes—decidedly, yes—especially in the winter. Gloves in a city, yes, otherwise a question of taste (in cold weather, of comfort). In a small town that could at all accurately be called a village neither hat nor gloves are necessary, except for comfort. 1 (b) This, it seems to me, is chiefly a question of becomingness.

2. (a) To every older lady but not to men unless really old, or a clergyman. 2. (b) Always in her own house; always when the hostess enters the room; always when a really old lady enters the room.

3. All simple clothes of all varieties. A skirt that covers the knees, and on no account rucks. Very little cosmetic—not enough to seem artificial. Inconspicuous jewelry is permissible—especially that which is essential, such as: a watch, a pin at the neck of her dress, etc.

4. If you wear a collar over it (showing that you are wearing a shirtwaist under it) then yes; but if it looks as if it were put on over skin, no!

5. Place your knife and fork together, handle toward the lower, right hand side of your plate; the handles well over on the rims so they won't topple off.

6. In a table d'hôte one usually gives one's order to the waitress. In an a la carte restaurant the guest gives her order to the host. This is a usual practice but not a hard and fast rule.

Never Wrong

Dear Mrs. Post: A few evenings ago while dancing with a friend I ran my elbow smack into the back of a man on the dance floor. I know it wasn't the lightest blow he'd ever had. I immediately begged his pardon; whereupon my own friend called me down for apologizing to a strange man on the dance floor. He said if anyone should have apologized he should have since he had pushed me into the man, but at all events it was not ladylike for me to have done it. This seems strange reasoning to me, but just the same I'd like to find out if he could be right about this.

Answer: It is never wrong to say, "I am sorry," "Excuse me," or "I beg your pardon," no matter, when, where, or to whom!
Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Restaurant and the Theatre." Be sure to send a three cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Thomas Sees 'Terrific Surprise for Heinies'

Washington, July 31 (AP)—Rep. Thomas (R-N, J.) said today he had just finished an inspection of some of the "most secret of new material" of the army and added "believe me, the Heinies are sure going to get some terrific surprises."

A comparison of army ordnance and captured German weapons at the Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds "clearly proved the superiority of American arms," commented Thomas, a member of a House military subcommittee which has just finished an inspection tour.

He said that the nature of some of the secret weapons "has never even been hinted at publicly, and I know they will come as a complete surprise to the enemy."

The new carbine adopted by the army, he said, is "undoubtedly the most effective small arm in the world." The new weapon is now being supplied troops which formerly carried pistols as sidearms.

Do Not Call in Person at County Rationing Board

Do not call in person at the office of the Ulster County Rationing Board, 32 Main street, for information as to whether or not applications for supplemental gas rations have been approved, was the request made by Manager John Henry this morning.

Residents of the county, outside the city, who do business with the rationing office at 32 Main street, and who have made applications for supplemental supplies of gas, will be notified by mail of the action taken by the board, Mr. Henry said.

The staff at the county rationing office has been rushed, from the time the office opens at 9 o'clock until, in some cases, late at night by the steady flow of applicants. Most of the time during the day there is a long line of people waiting to be served. Thus any unnecessary demands upon the time of the clerks simply adds to their work and to the general confusion.

Mr. Henry said also that a lot of people had appeared and applied for supplemental gas ration cards who had not yet obtained their original "A" cards.

Leonard Van Wageningen, born in Walden but now a resident of Kingston was arraigned on a charge of sodomy, alleged to have been committed June 22, 1942, and pleaded guilty. He said he did not desire counsel assigned and he was remanded to the custody of Sheriff Anderson until Wednesday for sentence.

Harold Oliva of Brooklyn, charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry to a building on July 11, 1942, was also arraigned. He is 16 years old and last lived in Modena. He pleaded guilty to unlawful entry to a building and will be sentenced on Wednesday. There was a second bill against Oliva, charging the carrying of a loaded revolver and possession of the pistol without a permit. The date of that charge was also July 11, 1942. He pleaded not guilty to that charge.

Soldiers Admit Guilt

Seymour Grzybowski and James F. Boggs, two soldiers charged with taking a car, were in court to answer to a grand larceny charge under which they had been arraigned earlier. Roger F. Loughran had been assigned at that time. They entered a plea of guilty. Grzybowski comes from New York city and Boggs from Kentucky. The two youths, 19 and 20 years old, Mr. Loughran told the court had taken the car while under the influence of liquor and he said the charge would lead to a dishonorable discharge from the army. He asked for the court's leniency. They will be sentenced on next Wednesday at 2 o'clock, and were remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

Andrew J. Doviak, who had pleaded guilty earlier in the week to an attempt to violate the section of the law relative to illegal possession of firearms, said he had been previously convicted of robbery in Bergen county, New Jersey, and sentenced to the New Jersey Reformatory. He was given a term of from 3 1/2 to 7 years in Clinton State Prison at hard labor.

Richard R. Evenger pleaded guilty to the charge of attempting to commit burglary, third degree, and also admitted to a former conviction in 1937 in New York. That charge was assault, second degree, and he was sentenced to the New York State Penitentiary. On his admission to the charge of being a former violator he was sentenced to a term of from 5 to 10 years in Clinton State Prison at hard labor.

The case of Gus Boller was moved over the term on motion of William Grogan who appeared for Boller at the behest of Boller's sister.

Court recessed until Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Germans Boast Great PreparationPropaganda Articles Report Coast Fortifications

New York, July 31 (AP)—German news services and propaganda agencies, continuing Berlin's recent campaign, boasted today of the strength of defenses with which Germany is prepared to resist any attempt of the United Nations to create a second front in western Europe.

The Transocean agency circulated articles attributed to the German-controlled Paris press in which new fortifications along the French coast all the way up to Norway were described "stronger than the Maginot Line."

The comparison with the Maginot line was made by Paul Russell, young French engineer, who for a year has been helping the Germans construct fortifications in northern France.

"These German fortifications are excellent," he said. "Concrete walls which have gone into their construction will resist all kinds of bombs. I know the Maginot Line from experience. But what the Germans have erected along the coast of the Atlantic ocean and the channel eclipses anything I have seen. There is no parallel in history for such fortifications."

The German official news agency, DNB, said the German air force has prepared with utmost thoroughness to meet attack from the west.

"From Biarritz along the coast as far as Kirkenes (far northern Norway) the hundreds of newly established and enlarged German airfields," DNB said it learned from "competent quarters."

The agency added that concrete runways enable the airforce to get going in any weather, and that concealed hangars house strong chasers and bomber formations.

"Despite this activity in the west," DNB observed, "the magnitude of the German airforce enables it to support unabatingly the furious advance of German armies on the eastern front."

prisoners asked the supreme court to rule that men in the defendants' situation could seek justice in civil courts.

Once this question was decided against the prisoners the court would have nothing further to pass upon. But conceding the prisoners standing in the courts, the tribunal then would have to examine the legality of their military trial. If this was held improper, a writ of habeas corpus would be the vehicle for relief.

U. S. Air Command In Britain Shows Greater ActivityFull-Scale Participation in Air War Against Germany Forecast by Officials

London, July 31 (AP)—United States army air force headquarters, strengthened by the arrival of four high-ranking officers, hummed today with activity which spoke of eventual full-scale American participation in the aerial offensive against Germany.

The arrival of the staff officers, who included Brig. Gen. Frank O'D. Hunter, commander of American fighting plane units in this theatre, and the debarkation of a new contingent of Canadian troops, stirred fresh speculation that an allied invasion of the continent might be in the offing.

Sir Stafford Cripps' guarded statement yesterday in the House of Commons, where he answered questions concerning possible establishment of a second front by saying that the government had certain "intentions," also added fuel to these speculations.

The British press, however, refrained from playing up the situation, and two papers—the Daily Telegraph and the Sketch—commented the Lord Privy Seal in their editorial columns for his restraint in dealing with the issue.

"When even the village idiot could see that an allied invasion must be in the cards, there can be no harm in making the enemy jumpy about it," the Telegraph said, but added: "In these circumstances silence, even in parliament, is surely golden."

The sketch declared that Sir Stafford, "gave the wisest of replies" to those who wish to know the government's plans.

Observers showed keen interest in the appearance of Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky at a closed all-party session of members of parliament yesterday at which he was said to have given a frank appraisal of Russia's military situation.

The News Chronicle's political correspondent declared Maisky had made it clear that he believed the time had come for the allies to attempt to open a second front.

Reuters, meanwhile, reported in dispatches "from the French frontier" that the quality of the fortifications which the Germans have built along the occupied coast has been greatly exaggerated and quoted a "French traveler" as saying that Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels was only bluffing when he boasted recently of their strength.

The American officers who accompanied Hunter were Maj. Gen. W. H. Frank, commander of the air service command, Brig. Gen. Robert C. Cander, commander of the general ground air support, and Brig. Gen. Asa N. Duncan, air force chief of staff.

Brushing aside all formalities, the officers immediately set to work.

Almost every Canadian contingent in the United Kingdom received reinforcements from the convoy of dominion troops whose arrival was announced last night.

Thousands of soldiers and hundreds of ground crewmen for the Royal Canadian Air Force were swiftly dispersed to various centers where they will receive training for action on a second front.

A predominant number of the new arrivals were tankmen, who were sent at once to southern England for battle training.

The convoy made the Atlantic crossing smoothly. While escorting war vessels dropped a few depth charges it was not known definitely whether the ships were pursued by submarines.

Searching Adirondacks For Young Couple

Saranac Lake, N. Y., July 31 (AP)—State troopers and rangers were joined by volunteers today in continuing their search through heavily wooded Adirondack mountain country for a young Bridgeport, Conn., couple missing since Wednesday.

Thomas Newman, 21, a warplant worker, and Mary Bowen, 18, a nurse at the Bridgeport General Hospital, were last seen Wednesday morning when they left the cottage of Newman's uncle, Verdo Newman, in a guide boat. The boat, found yesterday at the foot of Roger Mountain, contained one oar and one paddle.

The hunt centers in an area between Lake Placid and Saranac Lake.

Walach is believed to have been killed instantly. Kaplan was taken to the Monticello Hospital, where he died about 8 o'clock last night.

At Monticello police headquarters this morning it was stated that Witzler was being held under $2,500 bail in connection with the Wallach death.

The accident happened on what is known as the old Liberty road which turns off near the post office in Monticello. The front of Witzler's car was badly damaged and all four tires blew.

Recreations Will Engage Speedy Outfit Saturday Night in Buckeye Contest

Cincinnati Club Composed of Greatest Stars in Negro Ranks; Simmons Pitches for Reds

Fresh from their 6 to 3 victory over the famous Baltimore Elite Giants Wednesday night at the municipal stadium, Manager Joe Hoffman's Kingston Recreations are ready for the invasion of the powerful Cincinnati Buckeyes at the uptown ball park Saturday night. Game time is 9 o'clock.

Bill Simmons, who has a record of two wins and one setback on the year, will get the starting assignment for the Reds. Simmons has triumphed over the Homestead Grays and the Kokomo Kaws. He was defeated by the Newark Eagles.

New League Outfit
The Buckeyes are the newest team in the Negro American League which is composed of such other teams as the Toledo Crawfords, formerly the Pittsburgh Barons, St. Louis Stars, Chicago American Giants and the Jacksonville Red Caps. Although the club is new the team personnel is made up of players who have had experience on some of the outstanding Negro outfits in the country including the Newark Eagles, New York Cuban Stars, St. Louis Stars, Memphis Red Sox and the Ethiopian Clowns.

Cincinnati shows a lot of speed in its games which is one of the keynotes of the club. Manager Farnell Woods, who parks third base for the Buckeyes is one of the best in the N. A. L. and has assembled a powerful unit.

Woods formerly played with the Red Caps and also in the Mexico Winter League. Although no official lineup has been announced for the visiting Buckeyes tomorrow night, it may lineup something like this:

Archie Ware on first who is a sensational switch hitter. Billie Horne, the keystone operator, formerly played with the Ethiopian Clowns and the Chicago American Giants. Winky James, the shortstop, is considered one of the fastest men in Negro ball. Manager Woods holds down the "hot corner" position.

In the outfield the Cincinnati ball club has three sparkling players ready to show their wares to local spectators. Emmett Wilson, who plays in the center spot, usually bats in the leadoff position and he is another speed demon of the club roster. His great asset is beating out bunts. He's another ex-Chicago Giant. Sam Jethroe in left is one of the best hitters in the league despite the fact that it is his initial year in the circuit. Sonny Harris occupies right field and is another switch hitter. Harris has an average around the .340 mark and is noted for his sharp line drives.

The pitching staff is sparked by Eugene Brenner who has been a member of the West squad every year in the annual East-West classic. Willie Jefferson is another highlight. He has played with Mexico, the Cincinnati Tigers, St. Louis Stars and the Memphis Red Sox. Roy Robinson who throws from the left side, had experience with the Cuban Stars and Eagles. He may get the nod to hurl against the Reds tomorrow night.

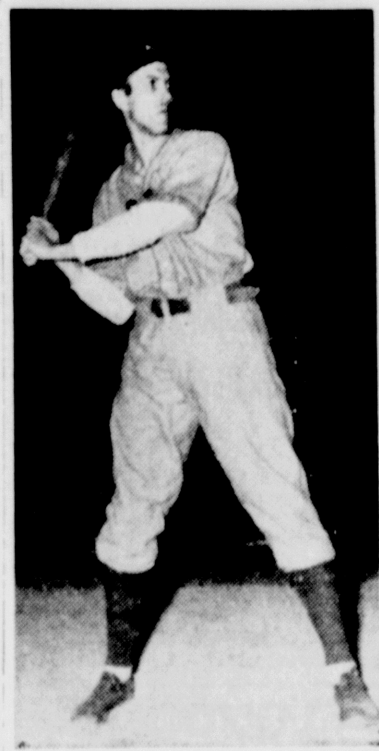

Ray Taylor does all the catching for the Buckeyes. He is noted for his great throwing arm and has played with the Cuban Stars, Memphis Sox and the Tigers.

In this game Kingston will be after its fifth straight victory. It will be the Reds' final tuneup before the Braves come in next Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Boston Braves Have Two Great Catchers on Team

Downer Is Up

Freeman Photo
ERNE DOWNER

Lanky Ernie Downer still holds first place in the individual list of batting averages for the Kingston Recreations with a solid .383. Downer has cracked out 23 hits in 60 trips to the platter. He has scored 19 runs. Dick Whitesell holds second place with .333. Don Hempe, Frankie San Filippo and Angelo Lucchi all have higher averages than Whitesell but have not been up at the plate enough times to be considered.

Following is the complete list of averages as tabulated by the sports department of The Kingston Daily Freeman:

Whirly in Arlington
Chicago, July 31 (AP)—Whirlyaway, already turfdom's leading money winner with a $454,336 bank roll, goes after another $23,000 tomorrow in the $25,000 added Arlington Handicap, which will climax the most successful meeting in Arlington Park's history.

The race at a mile and a quarter. Whirlyaway's best distance, may prove to be nothing more than a romp for the handicapper. No eastern horse has dared to challenge him, and the opposition, such as it is, will come from horses that have been running at Arlington for the past 34 days.

Beckwith Joins Army
Chicago, July 31 (AP)—Booker Beckwith, 22-year-old Gary, Ind. negro light heavyweight, will drop his boxing gloves for a gun in Uncle Sam's army tomorrow. He is scheduled for induction at Gary, Beckwith, a terrific puncher, was knocked out by Cincinnati's Ezzard Charles in Pittsburgh last Monday night, his first such experience in 22 bouts in a three-year professional campaign.

Clyde Klutz, Newest Member, Has Played in West Coast Baseball Loop

It has not been an unknown fact that the Boston Braves have one of the finest hitting list of catchers in the National League. It is represented by the renowned Ernie Lombardi and the newcomer, Clyde Klutz, ex-Pacific Coast player.

Klutz, who will undoubtedly see action for the Braves next Thursday night at the municipal stadium against the Kingston Recreations, divides the catching duties with big Schnoz. When Lombardi was out of action awhile back, Klutz did a whale of a job for Boston with his fine defensive play and batting skill.

Last year Klutz reported to Pepper Martin's Sacramento club late in the season and only caught in 83 of the Solon's 178 contests. And by the same count Klutz had an average of .336 five points better than that of Johnny Moore who paced the Pacific Coast League with .331.

Clyde is a Carolinian, two campus years at Catawba College, at Salisbury, then a four-year course in baseball at Asheville, Johnson City, Kilgore, Decatur and Sacramento with a climax in 1941, starting with the Decatur's Class B Combies and winding up drafted by the Boston Braves.

In the P. C. L. semi-final playoffs, the pay-off punch was Clyde's three-bagger in the 11th inning with the score tied, a fly scoring him with the winning run of a 5-4 decision over San Diego. Again in the finals, Clyde's 11th inning touch meant victory. All tie with Seattle in the second over time, Chet Wiecek doubled, Klutz singled.

Big things are looming for the ace Boston catcher. He'll be on the job next week.

Men In Blue—Dunn, Merely Loaned To Big-Time, Made Sure It Was Permanent Job

Wide World Features

Tom Dunn's National League umpiring career dates from June 24, 1939, when a long distance call to Milwaukee from the American Association office in Columbus informed him he had been "loaned" to the National League for six weeks.

The emergency was an operation on Bill Klem, dean of the senior league staff. The loanee made such a hit as a borrowed umpire that at the close of the 1939 season, when Charlie Moran, after 22 years of service, retired from active service with a retirement income of $2,200 a year for life, Dunn became a full-fledged member of President Frick's staff.

The slim, handsome Irishman from Fitchburg, Mass., has made umpiring his vocation since 1923, when he was manager of a team in a Massachusetts twilight league.

At the end of the season the umpire who had been hired to work in the league's all-star game was unable to keep his assignment. Dunn agreed to fill in. Result—he was invited to umpire an industrial league game the following week. This assignment developed into his being named umpire in an industrial league for the 1924 season. In 1925 he moved up to the Blackstone Valley League. In 1926 and 1927 he umpired for the New England League, then came two years in the Eastern League after which he began a 10-year term of Class AA umpiring with two years in the Pacific Coast League, joining the American Association at the start of 1932.

TOM DUNN

There is a strong Massachusetts angle to his National League connection. In the middle 1930's, he made three spring training trips with the Boston Braves and umpired in their games, thus making the acquaintance of Bill Klem. His first National League game, June 27, 1939, was a one-inning lifetime debut feature, because the battle went 23 innings, the longest major league ball game since May 1, 1920, when Boston and Brooklyn played a 26-inning tie.

All-Army Gridders Will Drill at Yale Stadium

Neyland's Aggregation Reports on August 5; Game With Giants September 12

With Yale selected as the training site of the All-Army football team, Colonel Robert R. Neyland yesterday completed the organization of his coaching, training and managerial staff which will start work next week to prepare the squad for its game against the New York Giant September 12 at the Polo Grounds.

Colonel Neyland, head coach of the eastern division of the All-Army team, will handle the backs on his 70-man squad. Herman Hickman will coach the line, assisted by Lieutenant Bob Woodruff. Murray Warmuth will coach the ends. The trainer will be Mickey O'Brien. Captain Bob Brashers will be the team physician, and Lieutenant Bob Eldridge the team manager. In addition Colonel Neyland will select a public relations officer and an administrative officer. The team will be organized and run with Army efficiency, since it will be a unit of the Army on special detail for six weeks.

Neyland's Associates
All the members of the All-Army staff have been associated with Colonel Neyland during his years as athletic director and coach at the University of Tennessee. It will be a smooth-working staff from the word "Go." The vanguard of the team will arrive at Yale next Wednesday, and by August Colonel Neyland intends to start full training.

Hickman, described as the finest lineman Colonel Neyland ever coached, is line coach at North Carolina State. He was named All-America guard at Tennessee in 1931 at the age of 19. The next year he was named all-league pro guard. A native of Knoxville, Tenn., Hickman starred in football, wrestling and track. He entered the coaching profession as line coach at Wake Forest in 1935 and moved to North Carolina State with Doc Newton. As a player Hickman was as broad as he was tall. Now he weighs 300 pounds.

Warmuth, the end coach, played guard under Neyland for three years at Tennessee, graduating in 1934. He was assistant line coach under Neyland through 1938, and is now line coach at Mississippi State. He is also a native Tennessean.

Ex-Volunteer
Lieutenant Woodruff is with the Corps of Engineers, stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va. He played tackle for Tennessee from 1936 to 1938, and was assistant line coach at Tennessee last year before he was called into service.

O'Brien has been Tennessee's trainer since 1938, when he transferred from the University of Chattanooga. He formerly was trainer for baseball teams in the Southern Association and International League.

Captain Brashers, Knoxville bone specialist, was a Tennessee undergraduate and is a graduate of the Medical College in Memphis. He was team physician at Tennessee for many years and was practicing surgery in Knoxville when commissioned in the Army Medical Corps.

Leskie Registers 226 High Game in Victory Matches

Jake Senor Cracks Out 561 High Triple at Central Rec Alleys Thursday Night

Frank Leskie and Jake Senor divided the spotlight in the Victory Bowling League matches at the Central Recreation alleys Thursday night. Leskie bashed out a sizzling 226 single while Senor grabbed a high-powered 561 triple.

Jake Senor, secretary of the league, announces that all of next week's games with the exception of the Blenheim Flying Fortresses match, will be rolled on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock instead of the usual Thursday night hour at 8 o'clock. This means that the Hurricanes, Flying Tigers, Wildcats, Douglas Bombers, Tomahawks and Spitfires will all meet at the Central alleys Tuesday night. The Blenheims and Fortresses will bowl Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. These changes have been made to allow the bowlers to witness the baseball game at the municipal stadium between the Recreations and the Boston Braves.

Leskie's 226 and 517 series last night helped the Flying Tigers to win two big games from the Douglas Bombers and thereby retaining their second place standings. The Tigers are one full game in back of the Hurricanes. Frank Leskie outscored scores of 166, 125 and then his topper of 226.

Phil Gaff had 473 for the Tigers. Senor's 561, high for the night, had scores of 170, 192 and 198. Ray Otto posted 440 for the losers.

Van Alostyne Hits 549
With Orv Van Alostyne cracking out a 549 series on games of 158, 211 and 180 the Hurricanes continued to roll on with two victories over the Spitfires.

Townsend rolled 485 for the pacesetters. Joe Weiss had 460 for the Spitfires.

The amazing Blenheims went to town last night and pocketed three triumphs over the slumping Tomahawks. Jack Parslow paced his club with a 494 triple. Parslow and Frank Ackley posted the high singles of the match with 189. Ackley also rolled 146 and 183 for a three-game total.

The flying Fortresses experienced quite a bit of trouble in having started after losing two games but finally swung into action and took the final game from the third place Wildcats.

Tony Van Gonsie sparked the Wildcats to the double victory on scores of 180, 149 and 174 for a 503 triple. The high single of the match was rolled by Julius Rudolph who had 180. Ted Gile, captain of the Fortresses, paced the squad with a 432 series. Ted had games of 139, 137 and 156.

Dodgers on Way to .700 Percentage Level for Year; Rout Cubs by 9 to 2 Score

Brooks Increases Lead to 8½ Games; Williams Poles 22nd Homer for Sox

(By Judson Bailey, Asso. Press.)

Fans probably don't pay a great deal of attention to the baseball standings these days because the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers are making runaways of the Major League pennant races.

Some newspapers in the spirit of good clean fun and to promote interest in the standings of the clubs even have turned them upside down, putting the two Philadelphia clubs on top, or have separated the Yankees and Dodgers from the rest of the leagues.

Maybe it will be a surprise, therefore, to point out that the Dodgers have won 70 games and lost only 29 for a percentage of .707 and stand a good chance of becoming the first team in 33 years in the National League to finish above the .700 percentage level.

The record was set by the Chicago Cubs in 1906 when they won 116 games and lost 36 for .763. They also were above .700 the next year and the Pittsburgh Pirates topped the level in 1902 and 1909. In the American League the great Yankee clubs of 1927 and 1939 and the Philadelphia Athletics of 1931 are all that have ever turned the trick.

Best In Loop

This shows how high the Dodgers are aiming and there is a good chance that they will hit the target. Even though the season has two months to run there no longer is any doubt that the team is the best in the senior circuit.

It added another scalp last night with a 9-2 conquest of the Chicago Cubs, who were crushed with a six-run rally in the fifth inning.

The champs were held to one hit for four innings by Lefty Versell while the Cubs took a 2-0 lead. Olsen himself driving in a run with a single and Lou Novickoff notching his sixth homer. But then the Dodgers let loose with seven quick hits and the game was turned into a rout.

This increased Brooklyn's lead to 8½ games over the idle St. Louis Cardinals. The Yankees also were idle, but their American League margin was increased to 12½ games as the Boston Red Sox dropped a 4-3 decision to the Cleveland Indians.

Ted Williams hit his 22nd home run with one on in the first inning to give Oscar Judd a suitable sendoff against Mel Harder. But Judd blew the game in the seventh. After Ken Keltner opened with a single, Judd walked three men, forcing in a run, and served another single to Harder for two more runs.

Sox Tribe Tied
This dropped Boston again into a virtual tie with the Indians for second place.

The Washington Senators captured their third straight from the St. Louis Browns 11-6 and cooled off the Browns' second place hopes. The Senators won 11-6, including a two-run homer by Jim Vernon, and St. Louis only outburst was a three-run pinch homer by Walt Juddich.

Pinky Higgins drove in six runs as Detroit downed the Philadelphia Athletics 11-5 in the first game of a doubleheader but the A's slugged their way to 7-6 triumph in the nightcap.

The Cincinnati Reds were held to four hits by Earl Naylor and Ike Pearson and lost a 4-2 verdict to the Philadelphia Phils in a night game. Bucky Walters gave six hits in losing.

Heafner Is Favorite
St. Paul, July 31 (AP)—Some of golf's best par-busters started romping around the Keller public links playground today in the first round of the $5,000 St. Paul Open. The field of about 160 pros and amateurs was headed by candy kid Clayton Heafner of Lincoln, N. C., who has been dubbed the favorite to capture the meet's $1,000 first prize at the end of 72 holes Sunday.

One More Game
Brooklyn, July 31 (AP)—Johnny Schmitz, rookie southpaw of the Chicago Cubs, will make his last appearance for the duration of the war tomorrow when he pitches against the Brooklyn Dodgers. Schmitz will leave immediately after the game for his home at Wausau, Wis., to be inducted into the army.

Scores 1,000th Run

BILLY HERMAN

Billy Herman, Brooklyn Dodger second sacker, scored his 1,000th run in the National League in the game with the Cincinnati Reds on July 21. It came in the second inning and included a lucky break for Bill. He dashed in from third on Pete Reiser's tap to short and the throw beat him, but Ray Lamano dropped the ball. Herman, incidentally, beat teammate Joe Medwick, to this distinction by the narrowest of margins. Joe had notched 999 at the time. Five other players still active in the league have reached that mark, though one, Jimmy Foxx did his scoring in the American League. The other four are Mel Ott and Dick Bartell of the Giants, and Paul and Lloyd Waner, both of whom passed the 1,000 marks as Pirates. Paul Waner will be in Kingston Thursday, August 6, with the Boston Braves.

Local Police Rout Newburgh 13-6 to Keep Big Series

Fred Stoudt Hurling Kingston to Easy Win; Presutti Walloped by Local Bluecoats

Captain Jim Simpson's Kingston baseball team took only one inning yesterday to prove superiority over the Newburgh Bluecoats by winning in easy fashion, 13 to 6. It was Kingston's second straight victory over the Bluecoats, the other being by 7 to 3. Kingston landed on Hank Presutti for five big tallies in the first frame and then bounced back with five more in the second. To take a 10 to 2 lead, Newburgh greeted Freddie Stoudt for a couple of runs in the first. The Bluecoats scored three more in the third to finish their running for the day. Presutti was elected to pitch for Newburgh yesterday when it was called that he had pitched great ball against the local club at the stadium. However, Presutti didn't fare so well with the Kingston batting power. He was hit for 11 hits. Lem Howard led the local team in the batting column with three hits in four trips. Bing Van Etten, Fred Stoudt and Jimmy Culum each had a couple of bingles. After four innings of yesterday's contest the Newburgh management called for a cessation of the game. As usual, both clubs were quickly off the field at the end of the fourth inning tilt to the clubhouse and dressed for the after game social hour.

Gallop Win Game

At Barnhart Park last night the Gallops scored an 8 to 5 victory over the Manhattans in a regular City Women's Softball League contest. Freida O'Neil batted out a homer for the winners. Dougherty and McCordie had two hits in three trips to bat in the triumph. Murray worked for the Gallops while Lucas and O'Neil shared the catching duties. Gallops pushed over two runs in the second and third and then "iced" the battle in the sixth with four markers. Manhattan tallied once in the first and added two in the third and fourth.

THEY'RE REALLY CHAMPS

Austin, Tex. (AP)—For five consecutive years the boys of the State School for the Blind have won top honors in the national athletic association of schools for the blind tournaments. Homer Riley of the Austin Statesman says

ON THE SPOT

By DILLON GRAHAM

New York—Sammy's still trying to win another golf tournament.

He won one and it was the big one. Dark horses almost never win the National open championship but Sam Parks was the exception. Just seven years ago he startled the sports world by winning the U. S. open.

He was unknown but he was the only one who could put those lightning fast, tricky greens at Oakmont. He was associated with a nearby course in Pittsburgh and he was familiar with the Oakmont greens. Far better putters than Sam were helpless on the slick carpet.

Parks was 26 years old, four years out of the University of Pittsburgh where he was captain of the golf team. He had made the winter tour twice with the pros, had finished in the money a few times but had never won a tournament. Few of the country's golf enthusiasts had ever heard of him. There have been other surprise winners of the Open but never a dark horse like Sam. That was his first and only triumph; he's never been able to win another.

Sammy, a pleasant chap, kept his head while he wore the crown. He was quick to admit he hardly had the experience or ability to compare with golf's top-flight pros. He was anxious to learn, eager to accept advice. His attitude made him popular with the other professionals.

Sam won with 299, the highest score in eight years (since the tourney was last held at Oakmont). Jimmy Thomson, Walter Hagen and Denny Shute were favored to win. Thomson, particularly, lost a splendid chance. He was two shots ahead of Parks going into the last round, but while Sammy shot a steady 73, Thomson soared to 77 and finished with 301.

Oakmont was determined the low-shooting pros wouldn't humiliate par on their famous course and the layout was tightened to suit all assaults. The greens were shaved to brilliant table smoothness and even a slightly tapped putt seemed to gather speed as it ran. The pros went crazy. But Sammy putted them.

For those three days on that particular course he was the best golfer in America. Others might have thrown the crown away, but Sammy won it. He earned it. Better but less fortunate golfers will be forgotten in the years to come but Sammy won't. He's in the record book for all time as the 1935 Open champion. He hit the wire first only once, but it was in the big one when all the blue chips were down.

Five years later in the 1940 Open Sammy scored 300—just a shot behind his winning total—and wound up in a tie for 33rd place.

Sammy has played the winter tour and in almost all of the big tournaments in the seven years since his Oakmont triumph but his total tournament winnings in that time have been around $2,000. A half dozen or so of the better pros have made more than that during the first six months of 1942.

A golfer with Sammy's game might have been a big winner in the 20's but he isn't quite good enough today against a large collection of par-busters. He's really a fine golfer, a modest, likeable chap, a hard worker, and this corner hopes he'll hit the jackpot again.

It is the equivalent of winning the national open, the national collegiate track title and the award as the outstanding team of the nation—all in one swoop.

Perrys Rout Tom Fisher, Turn Back Minasiens by 4 to 1

Young Pitching Star Is Shelled From Mound in Seventh Inning Last Night

All good things must come to an end sometime and last night at Hasbrouck Park the sensational pitching performances of young Tommy Fisher came in that category. For the first time this year, Fisher, the ace Minasian hurler in the City Baseball League, was batted out of the box as Perrys scored a 4 to 1 victory over Minasiens.

Fisher, however, didn't get the works until the seventh inning when he and Herbie Williams were locked up in another tight mound duel with Minasiens leading by 1 to 0. But that seventh Fisher met his Waterloo as the Perry club registered four runs and the ball game.

Charlie Manfro, Perry first baseman, started the ball rolling with a sharp single to center, the ball going over second base. Fisher gave Johnny Quest a free ticket to first base. Ralph Williams dropped down a bunt and was safe on an error to load the pillows.

This was Fisher's first real threat this year. He retired Schussler on a pop fly but Lou Fisher reached on Hughes' error. Manfro coming in with the tying run, Fisher then conked O'Brien in the ribs. That was all for the young ace and Earl "Red" Sleight took over.

Don Perry tried the squeeze play but Sleight, on the alert, broke up the attempt. R. Williams, however, found Sleight for a single to push in R. Williams with the fourth run. Herbie Williams hurled great ball for the victory. He allowed five hits and fanned seven. Perrys only collected three hits off Fisher and Sleight but that big rally told the story. By winning Perrys remained in a tie with the Minasiens for the top position in the second half standings.

Robinson Attempts To Preserve Skein Tonight at Garden

By SID FEDER

New York, July 31 (AP)—The longest winning streak in modern fight history—Ray Robinson's run of 121 in a row—collides with Sammy Angott in Madison Square Garden tonight, and there's more than an outside chance that the collision won't do it a bit of good. WOR will broadcast the fight at 10 o'clock.

Although the skinny Harlem hammer is 1 to 2 in the betting to stay on the track that has left him all-victorious ever since he first drew on a glove as an amateur—especially since he already holds a decision over Angott—Sammy is a specialist at upsetting guys in return matches. And tonight Angott has one distinct edge—a style of bashing beaks that Ray definitely does not like. Sammy likes to fight from a half crouch, crowd his way in close and then boff his opponent about the mid-section at a short range—the shorter the better. Robinson, on the other hand, is a long, lean stringbean who wants to stand off a way and pitch his hard ones.

In all his fights, he has shown little relish for the crowding kind of rival—and Sammy is one of the crowding-est. This corner believes Sammy, who has never failed to reverse a decision in a return match with any fighter who has once beaten him, can do it again this time, and will gallop home with a decision, in spite of the "Sugar Man's" speed and two-handed shot-making.

Sammy's lightweight crown won't be on the line in this one—it is "stashed" away until he meets Allie Stolz again. Yet, Promoter Mike Jacobs figures the fight presents enough of a nose-mashing party so that some 15,000 of the faithful, representing a gate of over $30,000, will be singing in on the shrill by the time the little Washington (Pa.) walloper and the Harlem thin man go to work at 10 p. m. (E. W. T.).

Robinson's long winning run has been piled up in 89 amateur and 32 professional outings. He is generally regarded as the best of the little men to come down the pike in years. But Sammy's the kind of a guy who can take his proverbs or leave 'em alone. And tonight he's out to prove that Ray is just a pitcher who can go to the well once too often.

U. S. Fliers Shoot Down Nine Jap Raiders at Darwin

By VERN HAUGLAND

General MacArthur's headquarters, Australia, July 31 (AP)—In the biggest burst of aerial warfare since the Coral Sea battle nearly three months ago, American fliers in Curtiss Kittyhawks yesterday shot down nine Japanese raiders over Darwin, while heavy Allied bombers 100 miles north of New Guinea set raging fire to a Japanese transport and shot up its destroyer escort.

One American plane was shot down at Darwin but the pilot parachuted to safety. The American fighters tore into the attacking force of 27 heavy bombers and 22 escorting Zero fighters over Port Darwin, knocking down seven of the fighters and two bombers at a cost of only one defending plane. The Japanese formations were completely broken up in this Allied performance, described by a headquarters communiqué as a piece of "brilliant interception."

The big raid upon the northern port came in the afternoon after a light, ineffective morning attack.

In other thrusts at the commonwealth, nine high-flying Japanese bombers made the first attack of the war on Port Hedland, in western Australia, causing slight damage and one casualty, and made a futile, single-plane night attack on Horn Island, in the Torres strait.

Keeping up their own offensive operations, Allied heavy bombers pounded on the destroyer-escorted Japanese transport 100 miles off Gana Mission, Papua, and scored five direct hits, leaving the vessel spouting flames visible for 30 miles.

Then the destroyer escort was machinegunned from low level and her anti-aircraft guns silenced. The transport, described by today's communiqué as a medium sized cargo vessel, was the fifth enemy ship damaged or sunk since the Japanese invaded the Papuan peninsula last week. Heretofore one transport was sunk and two others and a destroyer were hit by Allied bombs.

From all yesterday's operations three Allied planes were missing.

Folk Festival at Camp Woodland

Annual Event Will Be Held on August 8 and 9

Ballad singers, story tellers, fiddlers and square dance callers from remote corners of the Catskills will take part in a folk festival stressing the unifying force of a common folk culture, in America's war for survival, at Phoenicia, on August 8 and 9. There, in an open air amphitheater, the third annual folk festival of the Catskills will take place under the sponsorship of Camp Woodland, a children's camp which for the past years has been exploring the folk music and history of the Catskills.

City dwellers and farmers, school children from New York City, farm children from all over the Catskills, will mingle in this festival, in a demonstration of national unity through appreciation of a common folk heritage threatened by the destructive forces of Fascism. The festival will have two aspects: Our Catskill Folk Heritage and Our Heritage Lives On. The first aspect will be a presentation of authentic folk music and dance, and the second a demonstration of how folk song, dance and history may be used to build a deep and lasting love of democracy in our youth.

Recently unearthed folk music of the Catskills will be included under Our Catskill Heritage. Old singers, dance callers, jig dancers and tale tellers will present a rich collection of material hitherto unknown. Emphasis will be laid at the festival on the diversity of national and racial origins of Catskill music and the roots of folk music in the lives of common people. Songs sung by original Dutch, Irish and English pioneers will be sung by their descendants, who were discovered by Camp Woodland counselors and children on excursions into remote valleys.

Work songs of lumbermen and railroad builders will be sung along with traditional ballads handed down through generations. Along with musical survivals, the children's trips through the Catskills uncovered many work implements that will be on exhibit—implements reflecting the many changes of living and working conditions from the days of the early tanneries to the more recent boom of bluestone quarrying. The second aspect of the festival, Our Heritage Lives On, will demonstrate how folk culture can be a force in education for democracy. Catskill folk songs at previous festivals will be sung by the Camp Woodland Chorus of over sixty voices. Songs of war, stressing the common folk's hatred of Fascism, and Sing a Song of Democracy, a song composed by the campers, will also be sung by the chorus. There will also be demonstrations of Catskill square dances by children of city and country. Local history of the people of the Catskills will be dramatized in several plays to be presented at the festival. One group of children will present a play based on the history of an early tannery in Woodland Valley. Some the background material of the play consists of old account books of the tannery which had been mouldering away in an old barn near camp. Much of the information was gleaned from the accounts of old inhabitants.

War Production Halted; Strikers In Demonstration

Pontiac, Mich., July 31 (AP)—War production was halted today at the Pontiac motor division of General Motors Corp. here after pickets turned away day shift employees, and a CIO union leader said the employees were joining a mass demonstration in connection with a CIO-AFL organizational dispute over retail food store workers.

A spokesman for the management said the plant was shut down when CIO picket lines were established at all entrances at 7 a. m. and the workers turned away.

Tucker P. Smith, regional director of the United Wholesale, retail and department store employees (CIO), said the Pontiac workers responded to an appeal to join a parade designed to convince state and federal authorities that an AFL "blockade" of food deliveries to retail stores should be lifted.

Members of the Retail Clerks' Union (AFL) have been seeking to organize employees of independent food stores in the Pontiac area, and have enlisted the aid of AFL teamsters in shutting off deliveries to all stores whose owners have not signed AFL contracts. Smith estimated that 3,000 Pontiac workers would join about 1,000 retail store employees in today's demonstration.

Dr. A. C. Flick, Historian, Dead

Retired State Historian Dies Thursday in Florida

Dr. Alexander C. Flick, who retired in 1939 after serving for 23 years as New York state historian, died Thursday at his home in Santa Rosa, Florida, after a brief illness. Customarily he had passed his summers at his home in Rensselaerville, but this year he had gone south.

Dr. Flick will be remembered by many present at a largely attended meeting of the Ulster County Historical Society held at the Governor Clinton Hotel June 5, 1934, when he was one of the speakers and gave what was characterized as "a marvelous presentation of generalizations on the subject of history."

At that time Dr. Flick asked his hearers not to forget that they themselves were "living ancestors." He asked them to preserve for posterity those things that the latter will want to know and should know regarding these present times.

He was enthusiastic about the old stone houses that abound in this section and make it unique and held that every one of them should be able to learn something of their history.

At the luncheon which followed the meeting Dr. Flick also spoke briefly.

He said that Ulster county's historic spots were pretty well marked, but that from one hundred to five hundred more markers should be placed to designate historic buildings, bridges and places of interest.

The next meeting will be held the third Thursday in August at the American Legion Hall.

The St. Mark's Class and Home Department of the Methodist Sunday school met for their July meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Gulnac Tuesday afternoon, July 28.

Mrs. Delia Dingee was in charge of devotions and Mrs. Harry Oakley led the study period.

Others present were: Mrs. Larson Rhinehart, Mrs. Minnie Duryea, of the hot spots along the line. However, it wasn't until the crisis was grave that he resorted to the fresh troops which he has known to be holding out. The indications are that he is still keeping back large reserves which can serve him in an emergency for a counter-attack when the Germans are over-extended and tired.

The Red marshal has been playing a cool and daring game. His strategic withdrawal with such an extended line and over such a great depth has been carried out in a masterful manner. Only a great general could juggle thus with disaster and not come a terrible cropper.

The signs have been that Timoshenko has figured on delivering a heavy counter-blow at the right moment, presumably against Nazi General von Bock's left wing, which is anchored near Voronezh. Whether the mammoth battle will work out that way remains to be seen, but it still can be said that thus far the Muscovite position hasn't become desperate, though it is grave. Timoshenko can give much more ground without Hitler succeeding in breaking into the Caucasus.

Sees Negligence In San Francisco Defense Program

San Francisco, July 31 (AP)—Judge William Denman of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals charged today the War Department was negligent in drafting plans for civilian evacuation of this city in event of an enemy air raid.

Japanese incendiary bombs could cause more destruction to San Francisco, with its winds and wooden buildings, than the great earthquake and fire of 1906, he said.

He accused Lieut. General J. L. DeWitt, commanding general of the Fourth Army and the western defense command, of neglecting to instruct civilians regarding adequate plans for evacuating the city in the event Japanese bombs started huge fires.

He protested further that General DeWitt had not agreed to practice evacuation and had not asked for civilian aid.

Judge Denman said he would petition Congress "on behalf of the men, women and children of San Francisco, for redress of their grievances."

The charges and intentions were set forth by the judge in printed form after a letter exchange with General DeWitt and with John J. McCloy, assistant secretary of war.

"What for seven months General DeWitt has contemplated doing is to wait until this conflagration existed, and then, for the first time, place officers and soldiers unfamiliar with the hills, valleys and ravines of San Francisco in its streets."

"They then, for the first time, would attempt to direct the citizens, by that time panic-stricken with choking smoke in their lungs, to the exits which they would then choose for their evacuation."

General DeWitt's office had no comment on Judge Denman's protest, but the regional office of civilian defense, which is responsible for the protection of civilians in the eight western states, had this to say:

"There is a plan for San Francisco's evacuation. It already is in the hands of those charged with its administration."

Scores in Play

MARY MORRIS

Woodstock last night saw itself reflected through the latest effort of a resident playwright, Gladys Hurlburt, at Robert Elwyn's Woodstock Playhouse and it is no idle rave to say that the play definitely has Broadway possibilities.

The tryout titled "Storm" attracted one of the largest opening night audiences and will continue through to Sunday night.

Mary Morris, who played in New York in Eugene O'Neill's "Desire Under the Elms" gives a superb performance and the work of Joen Arliss surpasses anything she has ever done on the Playhouse stage.

The former plays Britta Day, operator of a mountain boarding house and Joen plays Glory Rose Day, her incorrigible daughter.

The cast as a whole performed better than any to date this season and the play appeared to surpass all others in registering with the audience. Calls of "author," followed the final curtain and she went to the stage for a bow.

Harry Young as Lemuel Day, the alleged boss of the house did commendable work with the part and Johnny Heath as Michael Torriani, an artist guest at the Day house, was again at his best.

Edward Forbes, imported for the role of Mr. Ling, an oriental mystic, was effective in the part and the work of Mary Farrell, Ivan Treisault and Philippa Bevans helped make the performance one of the best of the season.

Many of the lines registered with a wallop for the Woodstockers in the audience and the idea of the play itself also took well with the house. The effect sought by the author was well scored in the first two acts, but many thought the third act was a bit rushed and ineffective. These points, easily adjustable, however, steal but little from the effectiveness of the play as a whole.

Again the setting, representing a room with a large open porch entrance facing the valley is well executed.

16 Fairs Are Canceled Albany, N. Y., July 31 (AP)—Sixteen county fairs have been canceled in New York this year, but 38 others will be held as usual. Releases Plan for Summer Physical Fitness

Albany, N. Y., July 30—Dr. Hiram A. Jones, director of the division of physical fitness of the New York State War Council, today released a plan of the summer physical fitness program for girls and women. This program is to be conducted through the division of physical fitness of the local war councils and under the leadership of professionally trained women.

The total physical fitness program for girls and women will include basic courses in conditioning and emergency skills for the completion of which certificates will be granted. However, emphasis during the next month will be placed upon physical fitness club activities. This phase of the State War Council's physical fitness program for girls and women is designed to encourage the participation of girls and women in an extensive program of physical fitness activities. Through the organization of local physical fitness clubs, girls and women will have the opportunity to participate in team and individual sports, rhythmic activities including folk square, modern and social dancing; swimming, hiking, bicycling, outings and camping, as well as conditioning exercises and emergency skills.

Plans for competition within local units have been developed. However, the aim of the physical fitness program for girls and women is to provide a carefully planned program for large numbers of individual girls and women, rather than competitive units for a few. Standards of competition are designed to meet the ability and capacity levels of the participants.

Special considerations are presented in organizing Physical Fitness clubs for older women. Physical fitness clubs for younger women will generally be organized around single sport or rhythmic activity. Provisions are made for bicycling, hiking, outings, rhythmic and individual sports for older women.

Union Players to Stop Manufacture Of 'Canned Music'

New York, July 31 (AP)—The manufacture of "canned music" by 138,000 union players ceases at midnight tonight by order of President James C. Petrillo of the AFL-American Federation of Musicians.

On the eve of his ban on making recordings for radio and other public use—which he says comprises 95 per cent of the music heard in the United States and Canada—Petrillo broke a long silence last night to defend his action.

"Our order is not changed," he told newsmen in making public a letter to Chairman James Lawrence Fly of the Federal Communications Commission, who has said he would look into the recording matter and also into Petrillo's cancellation of broadcasts by the National High School Orchestra at Interlochen, Mich.

Regarding the school band concerts, the union chief wrote that the music was taken off the National Broadcasting Company network at his union's request because "the broadcast is intended to commercialize the Interlochen Camp."

"Interlochen," he wrote, "is a commercial proposition, while in public schools of the country the children receive their tuition free. . . . The fees paid by some of the pupils (at Interlochen) exceed $400 per season of eight weeks. This, in my opinion, puts the school squarely on a commercial basis."

In explaining the recording ban, Petrillo charged in his letter to Fly that the federal government was "protecting" radio stations, advertising agencies and record makers in a "combination" against his union.

"In so far as I am personally concerned," he wrote, "and as long as I am President of the AFM, I shall encourage such action (the recording ban) on the canned music situation until such time as these people who are getting rich on our services while our people get no money see fit to employ members of the American Federation of Musicians."

Petrillo told newsmen that half a million juke boxes in this country and Canada had thrown about 8,000 musicians out of work and that several thousand more had no jobs because of 500 radio stations "which do not employ a single live musician."

"Why," he asked, "should all big revenues go into the pockets of these radio stations, officials, and others without paying one dollar to the musicians?"

"At this moment there is no change," he said in answer to a question whether he would rescind the union ban in compliance with a request by Director Elmer Davis of the office of war information.

Despite the ban, he said, his musicians will continue to make recordings and transcriptions "for the armed forces of the United Nations and . . . any records requested by the President of the United States."

No Ice Cream for U. S. Soldiers in England

London, July 31 (AP)—Ice cream was taken off the menu at United States Army camps in the British Isles today because of a ministry of food ruling that ice cream manufacturing is a non-essential industry.

The ministry estimated the ban would save 30,000 tons of transport and 1,000 tons of paper a year.

The United States Army agreed to do without ice cream after the ministry's ruling, said they had to continue in operation to fill the needs of the United States forces.

YOU WOULD YOU LOOK FOR COLOR IN DIAMONDS?

The color of a diamond must always be considered in an intelligent evaluation of its true worth.

Traditionally, this gem is white . . . more frequently called blue-white. Tinges of brown or yellow in any diamond decrease its worth materially. While most white diamonds emit flashes of bluish "fire," diamonds actually tinged with blue are extremely valuable rarities.

Stop in and let us show you how slight differences in color affect the value of diamonds in our own large collection . . . and the importance of considering cutting, the degree of perfection and the carat weight of any stone you contemplate buying.
